

CLOTURE FAILS TO HALT COURT DEBATE

COLONEL MITCHELL RESIGNS FROM ARMY LEADERS HOPE FOR ROLL CALL BEFORE NIGHT

DECISION ON ACTION IS UP TO COOLIDGE

Fiery Army Officer May Return to Lecture Platform if Released

ENDS LONG LITIGATION

Announcement of Resignation Is Made Wednesday by Representative Reid

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Col. Wm. Mitchell resigned Wednesday from the army.

The convicted air officer, under sentence of five years suspension from the army because of his criticism of government aviation policies, put his resignation in this single sentence: "I hereby tender my resignation as an officer of the United States army to take effect Feb. 1, 1926."

The letter was dated Wednesday and addressed to the adjutant general of the army through the commanding general of the district of Washington. "Whether the resignation will be accepted had not been fully developed. Some army precedents indicate that in the case of such withdrawals from the army, they should state directly that the resignation is submitted 'for the good of the service.'"

The final decision will rest with President Coolidge, who two days ago approved with modifications the sentence of the court martial. He sustained the court in sentencing the colonel to five years suspension, but reduced some what the court's finding that he should be without pay or allowances during the period.

MAY CONTINUE LECTURES
It is the belief of Colonel Mitchell's friends that if he is permitted to step out of the army he will accept an offer to continue on the lecture platform his crusade for a reorganization of the national defense to give a more prominent place to the development of air power.

Should the president return the letter of resignation because of Colonel Mitchell's failure to say he is leaving "for the good of the service" there is considerable doubt where the succeeding developments might lead.

It is the impression of the colonel's intimates that he would stubbornly resist any effort to put him in a position of say that that armed services would be improved by his withdrawal from them.

His partisans also point out that the right of the president to refuse to accept the resignation of any army officer in peace time never has been tested in the courts.

By precedents of many years standing, however, this right has come to be generally recognized, and some war department officials believe it would survive the test of litigation, particularly in the case of an officer who is under sentence for insubordination and conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline. These officers argue that Mitchell's supporters would be at a great disadvantage in making such a test by virtue of the fact that the colonel long has been a storm center in the army. Some years ago he engaged in a serious controversy with his supporters and only last spring he was refused reappointment as assistant chief of the air service with the rank of brigadier general, because of the officers over him regarded him as lacking in the ability to cooperate in carrying out military policies.

CLIMAX LAST FALL
The case came to its climax, however, when he issued his statement at San Antonio last fall, after the wreck of the dirigible Shenandoah, assailing the navy.

FATE OF SAILORS ON ATLANTIC IN DOUBT

New York.—(AP)—The fate of 64 men members of the crews of the British freighters Antiope and Laristan which have been in distress in a storm at sea for three days was still in doubt Wednesday.

Six men of the Laristan were rescued Tuesday by the German liner Bremen, leaving 24 aboard. The United States liner President Roosevelt, which has lost two of its crew in efforts to aid the Antiope since Sunday, was still standing by Wednesday.

Five of the dozen passenger liners that battled toward Atlantic ports from one to two days late in the teeth of the storm reached port Tuesday.

Attitude Of Senate Is Cleared By Cloture Vote

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyrighted 1926 by Post Pub. Co.

Washington.—Several significant inferences may be drawn from the victory of the advocates of the world court in the vote of 68 to 26, whereby cloture of debate was applied in the United States senate.

First, President Coolidge won a personal triumph in that he quietly cracked the whip with his own party and got results. This may mean not only the easy passage of the administration tax bill but other important measures in this session of congress.

Second, the vote represents a possible lineup on future agreements providing for further international co-operation. Although the senate personnel has changed since the Versailles treaty was debated, nevertheless it proves again that the "irreconcilable" group cannot in the last analysis force the executive to adopt an isolationist policy and that had there been the same working agreement between Democrats and Republicans in 1920 as there was this week the United States would have been a member of the league of nations.

Third, the president secured 65 per cent of the Republican strength in the senate and 80 per cent of the Democratic membership—more than enough to make the necessary two-thirds vote whereby treaties and international agreements are ratified.

Fourth, all doubt about the adoption of the debt agreements negotiated by the World War Funding commission this year can be considered removed. With the aid of the Democrats, who seem determined to follow a co-operative attitude on foreign affairs, the president can count on more than the necessary votes. It takes only a majority vote to amend the law permitting acceptance of the debt agreements. The "irreconcilables" will launch some criticism against the debt settlements but this will not affect the result.

Fifth, President Coolidge can count on the hearty support of congress for the participation by the United States in the proposed disarmament conferences. Up to now, there has been some question of how the senate stood but the vote on cloture sweeps away all uncertainty. For the vote on cloture was an embarrassing one. Each senator had to decide whether he would put himself on record in favor of the "rag" rule, or whether he would permit the world court to be defeated. The world court and presidential influence won the day.

MARKS TURNING POINT
There is no escaping the fact that the vote on cloture marks a turning point not merely in the foreign policy of the United States in that it means closer cooperation with Europe, but it also means that Vice President Dawes has succeeded in forcing a climax on the question of senate rules.

While it is true that cloture might have been invoked as a natural device when the filibuster against the world court appeared inevitable, still there was always in the background the criticism directed by Mr. Dawes for the last several months. The senate as a whole may say it has rules enough now to limit debate and that the vote on cloture proves Vice President Dawes was making an unnecessary fight but the fact remains individual senators have been loath to invoke it and to the Dawes agitation may be attributed in some degree the fact that it was at last invoked at a time when failure to apply cloture would have meant the defeat of an important foreign policy of the United States, which may profoundly affect the history of the present generation.

OVER TWO-THIRDS VOTE
Third, the president secured 65 per cent of the Republican strength in the senate and 80 per cent of the Democratic membership—more than enough to make the necessary two-thirds vote whereby treaties and international agreements are ratified.

Fourth, all doubt about the adoption of the debt agreements negotiated by the World War Funding commission this year can be considered removed. RUSSIAN YOUTHS PILLAGE TOWNS

Hungry and Cold, They Descend in Flocks Upon Larger Centers

Moscow.—(AP)—Driven by hunger and cold, great flocks of vagrant children are descending upon the large cities from outlying sections like famished wolves, robbing pedestrians, pillaging homes and destroying property.

At Kharkov small armies of these children have terrorized the population for the last two days, with their assaults on houses and thefts and it was only after the greatest difficulty and threats to shoot them, that armed militia restored order. Scores of the marauders were arrested.

Madame Kalinin, wife of the chairman of the all-Russian central executive committee, visited the home in Moscow of one group of these pariah children, which consisted of a huge tar cauldron. She learned much about their habits and activities.

She found a special form of communism existed among them. One of their number, for instance, specializes in stealing ladies purses; another in snatching loaves of bread; a third fuel; a fourth clothing, while a fifth does general scout work. At the end of the day the spoils are evenly apportioned.

Mme. Kalinin declares these roving unfortunates enjoy such freedom and absolute abandon, it is impossible to keep them in asylums and orphanages.

GRAIN RATES INTO CHICAGO HELD UNFAIR

Railroads Ordered to Remove Discrimination Before April 1

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Rates on grain moving from a number of Iowa points to Chicago are unfair, in comparison with rates to St. Louis and Kansas City, the Interstate Commerce commission held Wednesday.

Railroads were ordered to remove the discrimination before April 5. The grain movement from Iowa to Milwaukee will also be affected by the readjustment order.

The Chicago board of trade complained of a four-cent differential in rates from southern Iowa to Chicago as compared with the St. Louis rates.

In ordering a correction the commission held that the rates were not they discriminated against Chicago, unreasonable to shippers but that the readjustment will give the three market cities practically the same rates when distances are the same. While the order did not specifically mention the rates to Milwaukee the decision explained that rates to Milwaukee are either the same as those to Chicago or are based on the rates to Chicago. In consequence the revision ordered as to Chicago is expected to be extended to affect Milwaukee.

MINOT BANKER GETS 16 MONTHS IN PRISON

Madison.—(AP)—Jourgen Olson, former Minot, N. D., banker who pleaded guilty to misuse of the mails was sentenced to serve 16 months in Federal prison by United States District Judge Miller at Minot Tuesday, according to word received here by Dwight T. Parker, state banking commissioner.

Olson is said to have flooded the Sauk Bank of Prairie du Sac, Wis., with alleged worthless paper and to have caused it to be placed for a time in the hands of the state banking commissioner.

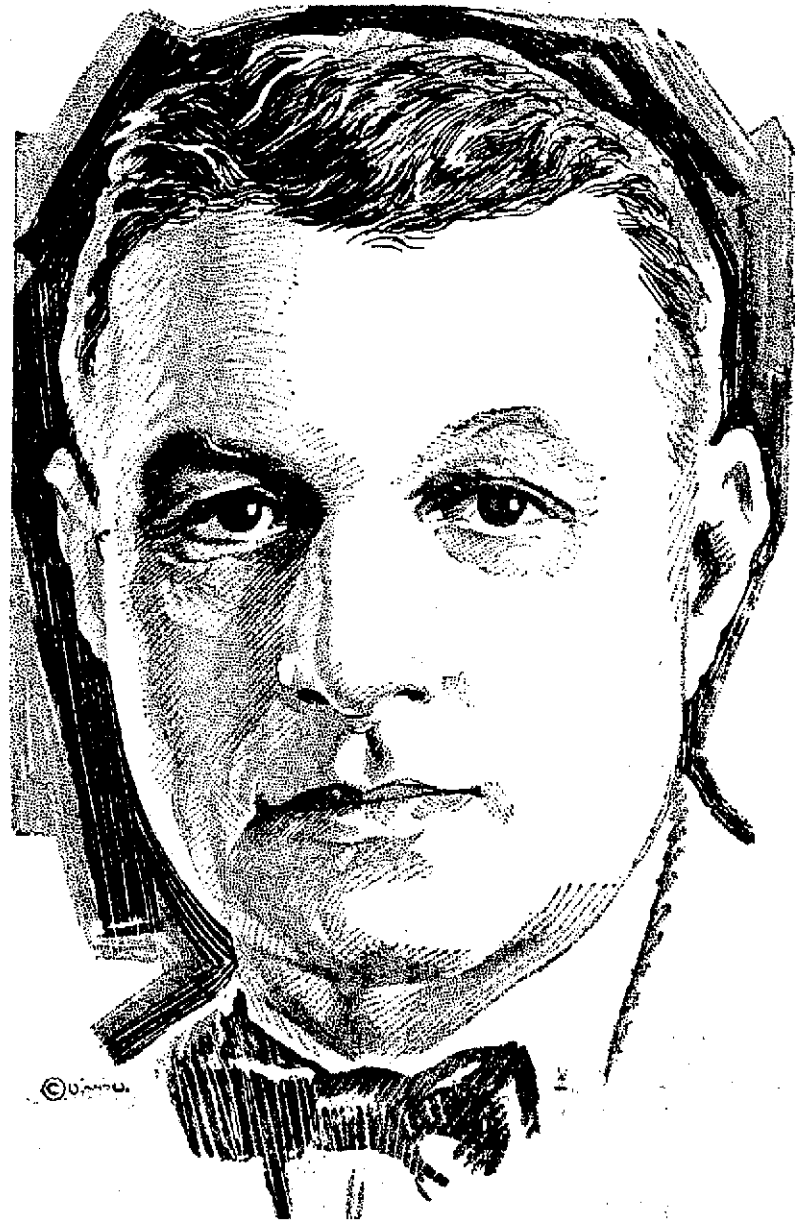

Stanley M. Ryan, assistant United States district attorney, said here Wednesday it had not been decided whether any further procedure would be taken in Olson's case. He pointed out that the indictment to which Olson pleaded guilty was virtually the same as that returned against him in this district, both involving the same operations in connection with the Sauk Bank.

500 TELL HOW TO END STRIKE ACTION ON COURT

Suggestions from Horde of Persons and Organizations Are Received

Philadelphia, Pa.—(AP)—Miners and operators, still deadlocked in their attempt to end the anthracite strike, resumed their sessions shortly before 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. No formal plan was before the conference so far as could be learned.

Neither side had anything to say regarding the proposal introduced in the Pennsylvania legislature Wednesday that Senators Pepper and Reed and former Governor Edwin S. Stuart constitute a board of mediation to end the industrial struggle.

It was understood that Mr. Stuart was ill and probably would not be able to serve if the resolution should be adopted.

Philadelphia, Pa.—(AP)—Five hundred persons and organizations have offered plans to end the anthracite strike.

James A. Gorman, secretary of the joint conference of miners and operators in session here said Wednesday that plans had been submitted from all sections of the country. Most of the proposals have come from persons with no technical knowledge of the issues, and their suggestions are regarded as of no practical value. Many plans are so complicated that they would be unworkable. Nevertheless, each situation has been given attention. One proposal started by reciting the golden rule. Suggestions came by wire and special delivery.

GENERAL PERSHING SAILS FOR AMERICA

Arica, Chile.—(AP)—Gen. Pershing is sailing for the United States on the Cruiser Denver late Wednesday after a meeting of the Tacna-Arica plebiscitary commission. His place as neutral chairman of the commission is being taken by Maj. General William Lassiter.

Wednesday's meeting is expected to approve the electoral law framed to govern the plebiscite which is to decide the sovereignty of Tacna and Arica as between Chile and Peru.

While General Pershing's physical condition is not such as to cause immediate anxiety, the doctors here believe it best that he return home and submit to treatment without delay.

Osborne Wood In Another Tangle With Authorities

Havana.—(AP)—Osborne Wood, son of Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, at the Hotel Biltmore Wednesday said he knew nothing of charges against him of passing worthless checks in Florida and declared that he would go immediately to Palm Beach to straighten out matters.

West Palm Beach, Fla.—(AP)—Former Lieut. Osborne C. Wood, son of Maj. General Leonard Wood, governor general of the Philippines, and whose meteoric financial and marital adventures are widely known, was sought Wednesday by officers of Palm Beach on charges of having passed worthless checks. Miami hotels were searched and a sharp lookout kept along the south coast of Florida.

The charges were filed Tuesday night by a private detective agency with the sheriff. The agency said it was informed that Wood had left for Havana and that it had asked the prefect of police of Havana to refuse him admittance to Cuba.

Charles Reed head of the detective agency, refused to make known the amounts of the checks or the names of the persons who received them. Investigation here Tuesday night revealed that he had bought three tickets for Havana. The names of his companions were not revealed.

DIETRICH GIRL MURDERED FOR MONEY, BELIEF

Chiropactor Tells Guards to Keep Away from Women at All Times

Philadelphia, Pa.—(AP)—Robbery motivated the strangling and dismemberment of Anna May Dietrich by David L. Marshall, chiropactor, in the opinion of authorities working on the case. They believe that the extortion story told by Marshall in his second confession was mainly fiction. Relatives of the slain woman also doubt the blackmail story.

Marshall, the detectives said, had nothing to be blackmailed for. They declare their investigation had revealed him to be in dire financial straits. They also said that Miss Dietrich was known to have had at least $75 when last seen and that she wore two diamond rings, valued at $400 and other jewelry which have not been accounted for.

Marshall in confessing said that Miss Dietrich's cabaret complex was proving such a financial strain on him that he decided to break off relations and she demanded money with a threat to tell his wife.

In his cell Wednesday Marshall, awaiting a hearing, warned the two young detectives guarding him to "keep away from women."

"You are both young men," he said, "You have your lives before you."

"Keep away from women, especially if you are married. Stick to your wives."

Marshall urged his guards not to worry about the possibility of his taking his own life. The detectives had removed his garters, shoe laces, necktie and belt before he lay down to sleep. Before retiring Marshall removed an upper set of false teeth.

"Do you see these?" he asked upon rising Wednesday. "I could have killed myself at any time since my imprisonment by breaking these up and swallowing them. But I won't do that. I would not try to kill myself now."

RADIO FANS HAVE MORE SUCCESS IN "GETTING" EUROPE

New York.—(AP)—Radio fans who have been struggling with static, S. O. S. calls, and general storm conditions during the first part of the week's international broadcasting tests, are now hopeful that the worst is over.

The air improved measurably Tuesday night, despite earth currents from the aurora borealis. "Cablegrams" and telegrams poured in Wednesday to tell of the triumphs of fans in plucking distant stations' programs out of the air.

San Francisco enjoyed music from Vienna and Lima, Peru. Denver heard Stuttgart, Germany, and Buenos Aires. New Jersey and Omaha fans listened to Cardiff, Wales. Omaha joined with New Bedford, Mass., in picking up Aberdeen, Scotland.

The aurora disturbances which affected the telegraph lines, were said by some scientists to be an almost negligible quantity in the wireless field. Others, however, were certain that the aurora acted like a blotter on the air.

Mrs. Anna Falta and three of her seven children were the victims of the first fire. They were trapped in a blazing bedroom and were dead when firemen succeeded in entering.

George Kissen, the fifth victim was suffering from a wound in the head inflicted by robbers several night ago and was unable to leave his bed. His wife, a paralytic, was rescued.

Five persons lost their lives in two early morning tenement house fires Wednesday. A mother and her three young children were burned to death in one fire and a man died from shock and suffocation in a blaze in the other.

LEADERS HOPE FOR ROLL CALL BEFORE NIGHT

No Votes on Reservations Are Taken During First Two Hours of Session

OPPONENTS OBSTINATE

Senate First Considers Reservations Offered by Senator Moses

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—The drastic restrictions of cloture failed Wednesday to stem the current of debate as the senate moved toward a final vote on the world court.

The old league of nations controversy, the policies of Woodrow Wilson, and many other issues were argued out again and once of twice the debate touched also on religious tolerance and the Ku Klux Klan.

The leaders remained confident that a final roll call would be reported before adjournment Wednesday night although a score of reservations remained pending and the first two hours of the session were taken up without a vote on any of them. They all were offered by the court's opponents and the bi-partisan group urging American membership felt sure they had the votes to kill them all, and then ratify the court itself.

The senate first took up Wednesday the reservation offered by Senator Moses prohibiting enforcement of judgments of the court by war under any name or in any form whatever.

INSTRUMENT OF PEACE
Senator Moses told the senate his purpose was to make the court a "real instrument of peace to the extent at least that it will not be an instrument of war." Wisconsin Democrat, Republican, and Senator Lenroot, Republican, Wisconsin, argued that the reservations would destroy the court as an instrument of justice.

"It would make the court a shield for wrongdoing," said Senator Lenroot. "Instead of a tribunal of justice."

Senator Borah declared the league of nations by sanction must enforce decrees of the court.

"If the other nations want to go to war it is none of our business," Senator Lenroot replied.

"Then there is force here," Senator Moses interjected. "This must be either an instrument of peace or war and it is now one of war."

The debate again involved disputes over the league of nations, and the policies of Woodrow Wilson. His widow again occupied a seat in the gallery, addressed in black.

Assailing the Moses reservation, Senator Underwood, Democrat, Alabama, declared "it merely asks the United States to close the door on itself before we have an opportunity to enter the court."

STEPHENS TAKES FLOOR

Senator Stephens, Democrat, Mississippi, declared Wednesday that the ancient order of Hibernians, the Knights of Columbus, and the Ku Klux Klan were opposed to the world court because of their "intense hatred for England."

"We are told by scientists that the days of miracles are over," he continued. "That cannot be true because we see the catholics and the Klan sleeping in the same bed on this question."

"Let the Irish catholic, let the Ku Kluxer look at the great interest of the United States of America. Let them lay aside their feelings of passion, prejudice and hate—hate against England, hate against each other."

Only nine senators comprised the opposition Tuesday when the five reservations and two declarations of war on the part of this government were adopted as presented in the resolution of adherence drawn by Senator Swanson, Democrat, Virginia. Eight of that number stood together against one of the reservations while on the others from one to three members voted in the negative.

The opponents were Senators Borah, Idaho; Frazier, N. D.; La Follette, Wisconsin; Moses, New Hampshire; Williams, Missouri; and Harrell, Oklahoma, Republican; Hise, S. C.; and Reed, Missouri, Democrats, and Shipstead, Minnesota—Farmer-Labor.

RESERVATIONS FAR REACHING
The reservations, more far reaching than those known as the Harding-Hughes-Coolidge group, provided that:

"The United States is not to be involved in any legal relation to the league of nations. This country shall join equally with other court members in electing judges and Deputy Judges. The United States shall pay a fair share of the court's expenses. This government may withdraw

The stores entered were the Rasmussen Sweet shop and the Jennings South Side meat market. It is believed that the same thieves were active in both places. At the confectionery store the loot consisted of about $350 in change, a few packages of cigars and candy. A nominal amount of change also was taken from the cash register in the meat market. In both cases entrance was gained through a rear door by breaking the pane or panel. The thefts were committed some time after midnight. EXPECT REPORT ON CITY SEWER SURVEY FEB. 15

Common Council to Base
1926 Construction Program on Engineer's Findings

W. G. Kuchhoffer, Madison consulting sanitary engineer, who made a citywide survey of sewers in Appleton has written to Mayor John Goodland II saying that his report will be ready about the middle of February.

The city council will not adopt a sewer construction program for 1926 until it has before it the engineer's report as all future sewers are to be installed according to a definite system.

The time will come when the city will have to have a sewage disposal system in which all sewage must first be treated before it can be emptied in the river it is said. Statutes to ward that end have been passed by legislature and the state board of health is endeavoring to help the city overcome their worst problems by asking them to separate their sanitary sewers from the storm sewers.

Appleton is more fortunately situated than most cities in this respect.
According to C. M. Baker, state sanitary engineer, there is no sewer in Appleton that will be too small as long as it is used as a sanitary sewer.
It is the plan of the city in time to separate all sanitary sewers from storm sewers in order to take off the load from storm sewers in times of severe rainfall and to prevent the flooding of basements.

CHANGING GUARD TO RADIO ORDER CALLED SUCCESS

Military Men Pleased With Experiment in Radio Control of Troops

The state radio guard mount in appleton Monday evening was a complete success so far as Co. D 12th Infantry was concerned in it, according to Captain E. F. Grundemann. The commands for the guard mount ceremonies were broadcast from Madison to determine the practicability of entering military commands over the radio and the success of the experiment goes a long way in establishing the permanency of radio in military work.

The ceremony was held in the punch and about 200 persons witnessed the unique experiment. The companied in line for roll call at 7:30 and the radio commands started coming in about 15 minutes later. The commands were given by General Charles King of Milwaukee, veteran Wisconsin army officer, well known as the father of the Wisconsin National Guard.
The University of Wisconsin band played about 8 o'clock to give memories throughout the state a chance to tune in before the commands were started.

The reception was very clear and the commands of General King came in very distinctly. The ceremony takes about an hour but was repeated after a ten minute interval making the program over an hour in length.
The repetition was for the purpose of perfecting the ceremony as guardsmen unused to radio commands found the procedure somewhat difficult the first time. "The performance of the men when the program was repeated was all I could possibly ask for," declared Captain Grundemann.

Reports from other guard units in the Fox River valley indicate that the radio test was a complete success throughout this part of the state.

JENSON HEADS "Y" ATHLETICS IN N. E. SECTION

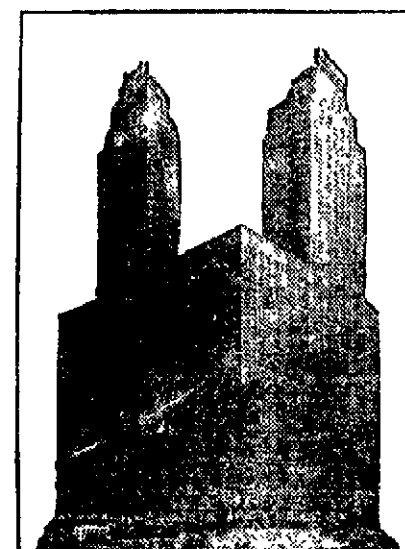

Y. M. C. A. Divides State into Districts for Athletic Competitions

A. P. Jensen, physical director of Appleton Y. M. C. A., was chosen temporary chairman of the Northeastern athletic district of the association at in Madison Friday and Saturday. The semi-annual meeting of the state association physical directors society fourteen men representing every association physical department of the state attended the meeting. Cities represented were Milwaukee, Madison, Janesville, La Crosse, Green Bay, Superior, Appleton, Racine, Wausau, Fond du Lac, Eau Claire, Beloit and Ashland. A districting of the cities possessing Y. M. C. A. organizations was made for athletic purposes and Green Bay, Wausau, Appleton and Two Rivers were placed in the Northeast district under Mr. Jensen's supervision.

The districting means that all athletic contests conducted under the supervision of the state organization must be fought out between these four cities before the finals can be reached according to Mr. Jensen. While this may not be worked out this year, the directors hope to have district-state tournaments in all sports in another year. Mr. Jensen's committee will hold a meeting in Green Bay on Feb. 16 to organize this district. Two or three laymen and a physical director from each of the member associations will attend this meeting as well as one or two general secretaries and boys' work secretaries. Athletics in the district will be organized and promoted at the meeting and dates for the district basketball handball, tennis, gymnastics and volleyball tournaments which will be held in the spring will be set, Mr. Jensen said.

HELP GREEN BAY
Appleton was awarded another honor, for when the state "Y" basketball tournament for 1926 was given to Green Bay the local association, with its wide experience in state tournament work acquired in the past was asked to assist the new Bay city association. The meet will be held about March 19 and 20. The state volleyball meet which was held here last year was given to Milwaukee and will take place about the last Saturday in April. Other tournaments were given to the following cities: Wausau, tennis, in August; Milwaukee indoor gymnastic meet in March; Eau Claire, outdoor swimming in August. A number of honors meets such as hockey, curling, bowling and free throwing contests will be conducted in the coming months.

While at Madison the directors held conferences with George Little, University of Wisconsin director of athletics and football coach; T. E. Jones, track coach, and Ray Schalk, Chicago White Sox catcher, who is coaching baseball. All three men emphasized the important part the association is playing in getting young men ready for athletics at the universities. Paul Neveerman of Marinette, secretary of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association, governing body of high school athletics in the state, explained rules in Badger high school athletics. The directors also discussed the amateur-professional athletic situation and methods of combating it, but no steps were taken. The men were the guests of the state university at the Wisconsin-Northwestern basketball game Friday night.

MUSSOLINI AND ITALY

Otto H. Kahn, the New York banker, defends Mussolini on the ground that he "has substituted efficient, energetic and progressive processes of government for parliamentary wrangling and wasteful, impotent bureaucracy." We would have no difficulty in agreeing with Mr. Kahn in his assertion that fascism and Mussolini were a good thing for Italy in the crisis that immediately followed the war. At that time Italy was close to social chaos. There was no government which could enforce order and authority. Italy was at the mercy of communists, radicals and the lawless. Because of the temperament of its people, there was no possibility of curing this situation through parliamentary government.

It is true, as Mr. Kahn says, that the first requisite of any government is the maintenance of order. That is a condition essential to the success of any government, and it did not exist in Italy. Mussolini re-established order. Not only this, but he instituted policies of administration and government that were constructive and that met the needs of Italy at that time and for the years that have intervened, in an able and thorough manner. The change that was produced in Italy in a few years was phenomenal. Industry was re-invigorated and building stimulated everywhere. Although Italy was not by any means restored to complete financial solvency, nor to a favorable trade balance, yet her progress will compare favorably with that of any other nation of Europe. She is as near a pre-war basis as any of them, and ahead of most of them. Furthermore, law and order have been preserved at all times. There has been no mob violence except in isolated instances.

We can agree with Mr. Kahn that Italy has been well served by Mussolini in a material and social sense, but we could not agree with him if he were to assert that the continuance of an absolute dictatorship such as Mussolini has converted his rule into would be a wholesome or necessary thing. Dictatorships in the end are subversive of popular welfare, no matter in what form they may exist. The tyranny of bolshevism, of fascism, of czarism are one and the same thing in the long run. Dictatorships can only serve emergencies and the briefer the better. We virtually have them in democratic America in time of war. They are necessary in Europe occasionally in time of peace. It is Mussolini's business to prepare Italy for a return to representative government either as a republic or as a monarchy at the earliest possible moment. If he does not do this he fails in his responsibility in the larger political sense. He has done many good things for Italy, but the evil things he may do—in fact seems to be doing now—may far outweigh them.

THE PRICE OF COFFEE

Julius Klein, director of the commerce department, bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, told the house committee investigating foreign monopolies, that America last year paid $125,000,000 more than would have been a fair and reasonable price for the coffee they consumed. He indicated that the Brazilian government's warehousing and releasing scheme has resulted in raising prices whenever control of the stored and harvested supply is exercised. In 1925 coffee was 20.06 a pound; in 1924, 16.7; in 1923, 11.5; in 1922, 10.2 cents; in 1921, 7c, and in 1920, 12c. The present quotation is 18c.

The most enlightened exposition of the coffee situation in Brazil was written by Isaac F. Marcoson, the well-known economist, and was published a month ago in the Saturday Evening Post. Mr. Marcoson, who has had a large experience in finance and business, and whose opinion is generally reliable, made a personal investigation in Brazil. Control of supply did not appear to be working out satisfactorily to the producers, he observed. Uncertainty of price and supply, with difficulties of handling, were becoming onerous to brokers and manufacturers, and manipulation of supply and prices was tending to break down the sales machinery. Manipulation has had the effect of curtailing consumption. Since 1906 up to date the exports have been maintained, according to Mr. Klein, at 12,000,000 bags a year, notwithstanding demand should have increased throughout the year.

Mr. Marcoson noted that planters were not fully satisfied with the scheme. They were not realizing all that they should from the possibilities of production, and the unstable marketing conditions were embarrassing them much the same as he remarked, is fundamentally wrong economically. But it is well that congress takes up the subject. A federal inquiry would probably show that the scheme is helping the Brazilian government, but not the producers.

When losses of all kinds are taken into account, with impairment of production and curtailment of consumption, the net gain of the planters probably is smaller than it would be by the equalization of demand and consumption. In nineteen years the exports should not have stood still. There should be a regular, normal demand both through population increase and stimulation of the use of coffee, instead of control of supply.

An annual hold-up of $125,000,000 on American coffee-drinkers is too much. It is about $1 per citizen. It is too exorbitant an exaction by the Brazilian government. The people of the United States could so vigorously back up congressional action or gesture that Brazil would regret trying out a monopolistic price-fixing scheme.

INVENTION AND BUSINESS

The most fantastic dreamer of a hundred years ago could not have predicted the wonders and magnitude of the commerce of the present time. Nor could he have the profoundest thinker foreseen the great commercial and social revolution, the great political revolution which has developed almost by magic, especially in the past thirty or forty years. Big business has not sprung from capital, but capital has been created by business. And business as it is at the present time, maintained by vast capital, is the ultimate product of the ingenuity of the brain. The original cause of our great progress was invention.

Mass production? It is possible only through machinery and tools, combined with transportation. High wages? They are possible only through use of the brain and larger industrial output. Machinery and tools require skilled labor, and skilled labor is immensely productive. Standardized production in the mass has lowered cost of production, so that price has been reduced. The combination of mass production, low costs, high wages and low prices has magnified the buying power. Larger income has changed the mode of living and increased the wants of the people, thus creating new business. And in the end advertising has stimulated sales, enabling further decreases in costs and prices.

Steam and electricity are the most far-reaching discoveries. They are the power behind transportation and machinery. They have incited invention by making new things commercially. Our advancement and prosperity are results of the action and inspiration of the brain. Our wealth and comfort are derived from inventive thought.

DISGUISED A BAD ODOR

One of the favorite fables of the Wisenheimer family is that a bad smell is a matter about which the health officer should concern himself, and one of the solemn functions of health departments in some big cities is the disposal of the remains of dead cats and things—while the live and quite odorless or pleasant smelling germ carries play their trade unhindered.

No doubt this old superstitious association of bad smell with disease or the throat of disease accounts for the popularity of the notion that an antiseptic is indicated by foul breath. At any rate, the powerful aroma, suggesting an accident at the barber shop or a house cleaning at the drug store, so noticeable in the Wisenheimer environment nowadays, is probably the disguise used to overcome anybody's wrath.

The average unsophisticated customer wouldn't pay two cents for a large bottle of liniment or a hospital size package of salve that had no odor. In order to move the goods you simply must make 'em smell nice or impressive. This is a trade secret which the manufacturers of popular antiseptic preparations understand very well. If the antiseptic ingredients of the concoction has no marked odor in itself, leave it to the boss's boys to concoct a scent which will keep the Wisenheimers contented. Thus, plain, homely, horrid and dissolved in water will do all that an antiseptic can be expected to do, but it has no smell at all, and so in order to popularize the use of it our noted but nameless "chemist" takes an afternoon off and "perfects" a conglomeration of tints and scents warranted to mystify and satisfy the exacting public.

The principle of overcoming one odor with an other appealed strongly to the mind of the old time health officer who used to "fumigate" the premises with horrendous stink pots following contagious disease. This locus poeas was actually practiced in some backward communities in this country up to a year ago, mainly in libraries, where curiously enough the densest ignorance of hygiene and sanitation prevailed.

Every traveler will observe the strong hold this superstition has upon the caretakers and managers of public utilities, conveyances and building throughout the country, where the alleged "disinfectants" are evidently employed for the sole purpose of disguising the stink situation. Even in colleges and schools, yea, even in some badly conducted hospitals, where professional integrity bends a little under the pressure of commercial aggression one finds high priced stinks substituted for soap and water or simple cleanliness.

A very good doctor using a conspicuous but worthless "antiseptic" pleaded, when taken to task about it, that although he was fully aware the stuff was useless he dared not defy the popular demand that such an "antiseptic" be conspicuously employed under the circumstances. Not until one has experienced the rubbishness of that popular demand will the doctor's defense of his practice seem reasonable. But I do not see how a railroad company or a municipality can offer such a plea in extenuation of the sheer waste and extravagance of the stink business. Wherever one encounters a "sanitary" stink pot at work two questions naturally arise: First, is it a case of utter incompetence and unfiness of the persons responsible, or second, is it a good graft?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Banana Oil
It is an accepted fact, begins a circular extolling an absurd phisic nostrum, that 95 per cent of all diseases and sickness may be traced to constipation.

Comment? (S. P. H.)
Answer: The catch is in the fourth word—it would be worth the price of a box of the "nature" tablets to see a group picture of the goofs who "accept" such "facts." I may be letting myself in for a warm occasion, but I do here and now solemnly challenge any competent person to identify any disease or sickness which is caused by constipation, except obsessions cultivated by gullible folk who read and take seriously the nostrum "literature." Q. How many telephones are there in the world? C. W. G.

A. The American Telephone and Telegraph company says that according to data at hand they estimate the total number of telephones in the world on Jan. 1, 1925, as 25,982,000, and the total telephone wire mileage as 76,114,000. Since some figures are not yet available the figures given are subject to revision.

Q. Does the dipper really revolve around the north star? D. J. T.

A. The naval observatory says that the motion of the dipper is only apparent, the real motion being that of the earth. The axis on which the earth rotates points nearly to the north star, which therefore appears to remain nearly stationary with the other stars circling around it.

Q. Can a submarine send a radio message when the boat is submerged? H. A. B.

A. There is a limit to the depth at which messages can be sent satisfactorily. This depth is about 30 or 40 feet.

Q. How do the distances over which the record throw of a lacrosse ball, cricket ball, and baseball compare? A. C. M.

A. T. S. Andrews' World's Sporting Annual Record Book says that a lacrosse ball was shown 497 feet 7 1/2 inches by L. Quinn Ottawa in September 1902; a cricket ball was thrown 422 feet by R. Percival, Durham Sands, England, April 1884; a baseball was thrown 426 feet 9 3/4 inches by Sheldon LeJeune, October 1910.

Q. When a bee stings an insect will the bee die? E. D.

A. The department of agriculture says when a bee stings another insect it can, as a rule, withdraw its stinger, thus doing no harm to itself.

Q. Where is the pear essence obtained that is used to cover pear heads? M. E. R.

A. Pearl essence is obtained by rubbing off a substance from the scales of certain fish, freeing from foreign matter and suspending in water or other suitable liquid. In this country the scales of herring and menhaden are used.

Q. Is the expression "flaming youth" a quotation? C. E. M.

A. It is a quotation from Shakespeare's Hamlet Act III, scene 4, occurring in the phrase "To flaming youth let virtue be as wax."

Q. Is Texas considered a fig producing State? A. R. T.

A. The fig industry in southeastern Texas is growing rapidly and possibly not more than half of the trees have yet come into bearing. Thousands of acres have been planted during the last two years and several large plantings will be put in this coming winter, according to local reports. This seems to be crop best adapted to the fertile, level, coastal-plain country of Texas.

Q. How many horses and mules are used on farms at this time? M. G.

A. The latest statistics are for Jan. 1, 1925. At that time the number of horses totaled 16,535,752; mules, 5,730,608.

TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS TO WEAR

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD MULDER

On the jacket of the copy of Christopher Morley's story, "Thunder on the Left," that I read, the publishers triumphantly announced that the book was an immediate success and in proof of this they declared that 60,000 copies had been sold—only a few weeks after publication. Before publication in book form it ran serially in a famous magazine in which from it was probably read by a couple of hundred thousand people. It is most certainly climbing into the best seller class and it probably has a very good chance to win the Pulitzer prize because it is free from that unnecessary wholeness of material that necessarily though it may be to great art sometimes, automatically has a book from winning this particular prize because of the peculiar conditions that the donor imposed.

It may be taken as proved therefore that the book is a "success." Moreover, it consolidates a career in American letters. Until the publication of this book the standing of Christopher Morley was somewhat problematical. With this book he has "arrived" so far as the general public is concerned.

WAS AT OXFORD

As a youth he became a Rhodes scholar and spent some years at Oxford. Returning to America he worked for various publishing concerns and as a free lance journalist. In England it appears he became obsessed with an interest in the "quaint" writers and that fact has had a determining influence on his style. Sometimes it has amounted almost to an affectation. The quaintness of Charles Lamb is one thing when Charles Lamb perpetrates it, in whom it was a natural expression of his fundamental character. It is another thing when it comes at second hand. But the youthful writer is usually imitative and it is no worse to copy quaintness than roughshod realism, as many other young writers do. Sooner or later the real writer will find him self and leave second hand material behind.

In "Thunder on the Left" Christopher Morley may be regarded as having come to his majority. It probably marks definitely the road that he will travel to the end. Many echoes there are in it of his youthful obsessions but so there are in the work of any writer. "Thunder on the Left" probably marks the thing he can do best and the thing that best expresses his fundamental slant on life. In the future it will be as easy to say what kind of thing can be expected from Morley as it is to say what kind of thing can be expected from J. M. Barrie, for instance. He is placed and I for one shall never look for the Theodore Dreiser kind of book from him.

IS CLEVER

And "Thunder on the Left" seems to me to be marked more by cleverness than by the inevitability of greatness. It is unquestionably clever and much of it makes very entertaining reading. It is fantastic and is not to be judged by the ordinary rules of realistic fiction, but that is not necessarily it. It is agreed beforehand that things could not happen like that, anymore than the fantasy of a dream can happen in actual life. That being agreed, the book is to be enjoyed as a work of art as we enjoy "Peter Pan" or "The Bluebird."

And within this agreed literary frame there is a good deal of realistic reporting. The people from the city, resorting along the primitive conditions of the country are portrayed with skill and humor.

The insincerities that are all pervasive in the lives of average men and women are beautifully contrasted with the sincerities of children and the point of the book is that children lose their innocence and native honesty as they grow into men and women. The book is an indictment of so-called civilization and the wisdom of maturity.

Granting the premise it is well done. But a doubt remains at the end. Are children so sincere and honest as they are implied? And would it be desirable to be without the inhibitions of maturity? Did not the Biblical writer show better sense and better psychology also when as a man "he put away childish things?" Are children fundamentally more sincere and honest than grownups? I doubt it.

PAY DAY

STATE TO OBTAIN $14,000 MORE IN TAXES FROM CITY

Appleton Pays About $84,551
This Year and Paid $70,- 706 Year Before

Nominally the taxpayers of Appleton are paying no "state tax" this year, for the state tax proper was remitted this year through the final release of a surplus which had accumulated in the state treasury over a period of years. Yet in spite of this, the state is drawing about $14,000 more in taxes from Appleton than it did last year. It is clear from figures computed by E. L. Williams, city clerk.

The argument of economy and shifting of taxes from real estate to personal property apparently is lost upon the average taxpayer when he compares his this year's receipt with that of last year. The average local tax bill is larger than that of last year in spite of the reduction of the city tax proper.

The state taxes for last year were as follows:

State tax proper	$32,924
State special charge	3,376
State income tax	1,154
State property tax	25,252
Surpluses

Total $62,706

This year's levy taxes for the state are:

State tax	None
State special charge	4,207
State income tax	59,325
State property tax	21,019
Surpluses

Total $84,551

The increase in state taxes was caused by the changes in the income tax law which raised the state's share from 10 per cent to 40 per cent and repealed the personal property tax.

Had a general property tax been levied by the state this year, the total increase in state revenue would have been about $50,000. Instead of $7,000. This tax for state government will have to be reckoned with again next year, unless the revenue from the income tax will make possible another remission of the property tax.

MORE INCOME TAX

Appleton taxpayers are not only paying more income taxes to the state, but also to the city this year under the new law. Although the city's share has been reduced by the legislature from 70 per cent to 50 per cent, the repeal of the personal property tax offset this year gave the city nearly $20,000 more in income tax revenue over that of last year. The city is collecting about $74,000 for its own use, as against $55,000 a year ago.

This increased revenue from the income tax in addition to a larger public utility tax, which is not included in the city general tax levy, was responsible for one-third of the city's $80,000 tax reduction. Appleton is raising about $250,000 in property taxes for its own purposes, as against $360,000 last year. The county-state tax, however, is larger, or $247.00, as compared with $210.00 a year ago, and the school taxes are lower, or about $378.00, as compared with $405.00 a year ago. This makes the total property tax for county, state and city $70,000 lower or $900,000, as against $976,000 a year ago.

This reduction of $70,000 is practically offset by a $68,000 increase in income taxes for state, county and city purposes. Last year the total revenue from the income tax for all three governmental units was about $51,000, while this year it is approximately $119,000. The increase is due to the repeal of the personal property tax offset, which now makes the owner of personal property pay the full amount of his tax on personal property. Repeal of the homestead exemption also has shifted a larger tax back upon the small properties, which last year was placed upon the larger properties.

APPLETON FIRM GETS CONTRACT IN BELOIT

Airt-Killgren Co. of this city has been awarded the contract for wiring a school building to be built at Beloit, according to word received from that city. The buildings which will be known as the Cunningham grade school, was designed by Smith and Brandt, Appleton architects. The Airt-Killgren bid was $1,225.

The Appleton Construction Co. submitted a bid on the general contract, and the award of the contract was held up for two weeks because the local concern charged that John Schneberg, to whom the job was given, had been permitted to change his bid. The Appleton company felt that it should be awarded the contract, but the Beloit school board thought that Schneberg should get the job as his bid was lower after the change had been made. The change was allowed, because according to board members, the first price quoted was obviously an error.

KEEP YOUR CAR RUNNING WHILE GAS IS CHEAP

British Oil Magnates Grin as They Watch American
Wells Go Dry

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington—Americans think it's something awful the way they're being gouged now by British rubber producers.

But, the United States Geological Survey hints, it isn't a circumstance to what's coming a few years hence, when this country and Mexico get down to the bottom of their oil reserves.

The survey gives them about 10 years before they begin to feel the pinch nationally.

American oil isn't the only oil in the world. Probably it's only a comparatively small part of it.

The British own or control what are believed to be rich fields in the middle and near east—Persia, Mesopotamia and elsewhere. Japan undoubtedly has plenty in Sakhalin Islands off Siberia. Russia is supposed to be well provided.

But these countries hardly draw at all on their own supplies. They cork up their wells and come over and buy here.

The United States provides the world with about 70 per cent of all its oil. Approximately 90 per cent.

The world can afford to come to us because we're not hoggish about our prices. Flivver owners may not think so, but the Geological Survey predicts that they'll look back on them as such when their domestic wells run dry and they have to go abroad for gas to turn their motors.

The survey plainly suspects that their foreigners are holding something up their sleeves, in hanging onto their own stores while we're using up ours as fast as we can pump them.

Letting oil come to the surface all by itself and run out voluntarily, needless to say, is a cheap method of production. Pumping it isn't very expensive.

But the quality available by such means is limited. As previously remarked, we appear to have enough to last 10 years or thereabouts.

Then we shall have to begin wringing it out of oil-bearing rock, which costs money. In effect, it will have to be mined, like coal, requiring high priced machinery and man-power.

At this point the British, the Japanese and the Russians will calmly extract the stoppers from their wells and oil will begin to gush, at a production cost of next to nothing, just as ours used to do.

Operation of our own oil mines will be making our gas cost us about 60 cents a gallon by this time.

We'll gaze longingly at our neighbors' cheap product overseas and say we'd like some. "Certainly," they'll reply cordially. "You can have all you want around 59 cents a gallon."

Of course all this is assuming we won't discover more domestic oil of which the Geological Survey doesn't seem to think there's much prospect.

Or that some new means isn't invented for driving automobiles, ships and other vehicles of the land, sea and air which now depend on oil and its derivatives for their motive power.

This latter really is considerably talked about, but it behooves us to do something besides talking or we're due for a financial experience in the course of another decade that probably will make us feel as if the British rubber monopolies had treated us generously.

SPINSTERHOOD

BEGIN HERE TODAY
BARBARA HAWLEY, 25, breaks with her fiancé, BRUCE REYNOLDS, and gets a job on the Appleton Telegraph, in order to see life.

ANDREW McDERMOTT, the managing editor, is a former friend of her father. BOB JEFFRIES, police reporter, proves friendly.

Barbara attends a newspaper dinner at the Lighthouse Inn with SINBAD SULLIVAN, a press agent. There she meets JEROME BALL, a man about town.

The sound of a shot comes from an inner room in the road-house.

NORMAN HOLLOWELL, a prominent broker, is found dead in the room. A suicide note is found in his pocket, but Barbara finds a woman's scarf under the table.

She is sent to interview MRS. LYDIA STACY, a prominent society woman, on a real estate project by Bruce's firm.

While there Mrs. Stacy's maid reveals having sent a dress to the cleaners to have a wine stain removed. Barbara connects the wine-stained dress with the road-house shooting of Hollowell.

She seals the tell-tale scarf in an envelope and hides it in her desk. That night she has dinner with Jerome Ball, and rebuffs his advances.

Barbara and Bob enjoy reading letters addressed to the love-lorn column by a girl who has a beer-stained kimono, straight eyelashes and unrequited love for a certain young man.

Later Bob escorts her to a reception given by Mrs. Stacy for a foreign architect. Barbara finds Bruce is the guest of honor. Bob is called away on an assignment, and Barbara is forced to accept Mrs. Stacy's offer to have Bruce see her home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXI

Barbara sat in the far corner of the limousine, staring out the window. She was trembling.

Then she laughed aloud. Bruce turned from the opposite window. Barbara was laughing recklessly, her body shaking.

"What's the matter?" he asked.

"It's so funny," she gasped, "this whole affair."

Bruce looked at her soberly. "I don't quite see it," he said.

She went on laughing. As they passed a street lamp he saw the light flash across her face. "What is it, Barbara? You mustn't carry on like this. You're sick. Why, you're almost hysterical."

Barbara gave another little shriek of laughter that ended in a sob.

"Lydia Stacy worrying because we had never met each other—wanting to be to friends—you forced to bring me home whether you like it or not. Bob's coat tail—the whole horrible evening. Perfectly gorgeous joke. Just like fate to hand out this kind of deal."

She lay back against the cushions weakly. Tears were running down her cheeks. She did not try to wipe them away.

"If you get hold of yourself, Barbara, perhaps we can talk. I've been wanting to talk to you for a long time."

She did not answer. Bruce looked hard at her. Her eyes were shut and her face white against the dark upholstery. "Rahs, dear, are you all right?" He put one arm about her shoulders and drew her forward.

Barbara pulled away and sat up straight. "Please don't," she said wearily, drawing her cloak about her. "The great machine was howling through quiet streets, its powerful lights painting a wide white avenue ahead."

"Look here, Barbara," said Bruce. "What's this all about anyway? Are we going to be enemies to the end of the chapter, or can we at least be friends again? Is it necessary to hate each other, just because we fell out of love?"

Barbara flared back. "I don't hate you. You just don't count, that's all. But it is a good joke on both of us, being forced together this way."

"My, wouldn't Mrs. Stacy be sorry if she knew the true circumstances? Her grand lady airs toward me would vanish into thin air. She'd be just a jealous cat, if she knew."

"Not that there's any reason for jealousy. You and I are only strangers forever and ever. But she's so gone on you she'd even be jealous of your past."

Bruce stammered. "What silly nonsense, Barbara. I'd never have expected such talk from you. But let's have it out here and now."

"Are you satisfied with the course you've chosen or not? For heaven's sake be honest with me, Rahs. Maybe our whole future happiness rests on it. You don't look like a happy woman, Barbara."

Barbara sniffed. "A happy woman! And since when did you take up mind reading, Bruce?" she asked. "I'm happier than I've ever been in my life before. So don't flatter yourself I'm regretting our broken engagement. That's so far in the past I sometimes find it hard to believe I ever really knew you at all."

"You're lying," he answered calmly.

"She was stung. I'm telling the solemn truth. You simply don't exist for me anymore. And the life I'm living is the only life I'd ever want to live. So you may go ahead with your rich widow as soon as you like."

Bruce answered slowly. "I don't know what you've heard, Barbara," he said. "But there's never been any girl for me but you. I don't like your ideas and I don't like many of the things you do. And most of all, I don't like your selfishness. But I've loved you. And that's more than I can say for any other woman."

Barbara spoke reflectively. "Of course I haven't any money to offer

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

LIBRARY STARTS READING COURSE

Guidance to Fundamentals of Education Furnished for Those Who Would Improve Selves

"Reading With a Purpose," is the name of a new educational course instituted at the Appleton public library for the benefit of men and women and young people who wish to broaden their knowledge of the fundamentals underlying a liberal education. It furnishes an introduction to the various subjects treated and serves as a guide to the best books treating of them, thus eliminating haphazard methods of self-instruction.

Miss Florence Day, librarian, reports an increasing interest in the reading course. Upwards of 15 subjects are included, and each covers a reading period of about two weeks. The first to be taken up and the one now being studied is Biology. Others to follow are: English Literature, Ten Pivotal Figures in History, Great American Books, Frontiers of Knowledge, Guide to Music Lovers, Sociology and Social Problems, Conflicts in American Public Opinion, Our Children, Economics, Physical Sciences, Psychology, Philosophy, Religion of Every Day Life. Other subjects may be added later.

Six books furnish material for the first course. They are: "Our Forerunners," Burkitt; "Evolution—the Way of Man," Kellogg; "Men of the Old Stone Age," Osborn; "Everyday Biology," Thomson; "Social Life Among Insects," Wheeler; "Fruit of the Family Tree," Wiggam.

Mrs. Addie Lathrop and sister Mrs. Thomas Prunty of Hortonia left Monday for the south where they will spend the winter with Mrs. Lathrop's son, Louis Lathrop at Texicana, Ark.

A Human Life Cannot Be Restored

In its campaign for Careful Driving within its own organization, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has presented the problem in the form of an appeal to its drivers, using the age-old, golden rule, as the theme.

It has said: "If you expect other people to drive carefully when those who are near and dear to you are crossing the streets, do your part, by having your car under absolute control at all times."

"Pedestrians crossing the streets may stop directly in front of your car. Remember at all times that a human life cannot be restored and having had the right-of-way is no consolation in the event of a tragic contingency."

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has pointed out to its men that it is unsafe to turn corners faster than six miles per hour. It may seem slow, but it is safe. At this rate of speed you are prepared to stop if someone's little child is playing in the street just around the corner.

They are told never to take an unnecessary chance in crossing street car or railroad tracks at a speed faster than six miles per hour.

It is true that all Standard Oil Company (Indiana) vehicles come to a stop at railroad crossings, but even then they proceed with extreme caution.

Nowadays, with our city streets and highways alive with automobiles, it is dangerous to dodge around other cars, and it is inviting an accident to follow the preceding vehicle too closely. Always give an erratic driver a wide berth.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has made these suggestions persistently and with consistent frequency. In addition it has made it mandatory on all drivers of Company vehicles to observe all local traffic laws.

The result of this Safety First work has cut down the number of accidents to a surprising minimum. Standard Oil Company (Indiana) drivers go more than half way to maintain safety on the streets—they exercise more than ordinary care—they use extraordinary care; they do not presume upon their traffic rights, their first thought is always safety—and for all.

This Company's drivers have pledged themselves to observe the written and the unwritten traffic laws—in spirit as well as in letter.

Their willingness, loyalty and sound judgment in matters of driving are typical and indicative of the spirit prevailing throughout this organization of 28,059 men and women.

It is this remarkable spirit which enables this Company to render such a constructive service to the thirty million people of the Middle West.

CHEVROLET

Improved!

A Type of Performance Never Before Obtained In Any Low Priced Car

Thousands have already driven the Improved Chevrolet.

They know its new smoothness, new stamina, new swiftness of acceleration.

They know that in performance it completely dwarfs every Chevrolet achievement of the past and that it ranks as the finest Chevrolet in Chevrolet history.

And if you are one who has not yet been behind the wheel, you have more than a treat in store. You have yet to experience a type of performance never before offered in any low priced car.

A performance so effortless, so smooth, so powerful, so spirited and thrilling in every phase, that you will call it nothing short of a revelation!

Chevrolet's leadership has been based on giving quality at low cost.

Now the Improved Chevrolet gives another reason for an even wider margin of leadership—performance the equal of which has heretofore been unattainable in the low-price field.

True, the Improved Chevrolet is easier-riding. True, there is striking beauty in the New Duco finishes. True, Chevrolet prices are lower. But the one great and outstanding reason why you and every other motorist should drive this splendid car, is to experience the matchless performance it now introduces.

Drive where you will—and as long as you like, through traffic, through sand, through mud, over hills—and over mountains, if you please. Expect something really new, really worthwhile, something really unique—and you will not be disappointed.

DARROW, FAMOUS LAWYER, SPEAKS HERE ON FEB. 12

Noted Chicagoan to Give His Lecture on Crime and Its Prevention

Clarence Darrow, Chicago, probably the most famous lawyer in the world, will speak to an Appleton audience in the Lawrence Memorial chapel on Friday evening Feb. 12, it was announced Wednesday when arrangements for Mr. Darrow's visit here were completed. Preparations are being made for a capacity audience to hear the noted lawyer.

Mr. Darrow will discuss crime and its prevention. He has delivered this lecture before enormous audiences in many cities and he is in constant demand as a speaker. It was only after considerable difficulty that he was able to arrange a date to speak here.

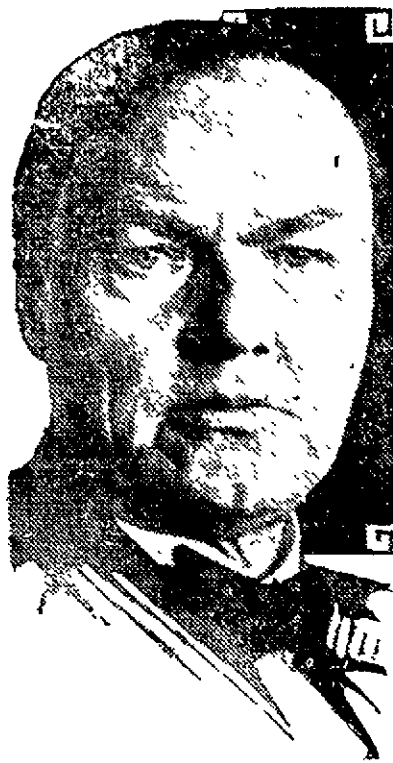

Probably no man not in public life has held the attention of the public for so long a period as Mr. Darrow. He is regarded as one of the greatest orators of the present day and it is said he ranks high among the great platform speakers of the country, his ever had. No lawyer in recent years has been attached to so many important cases and his appearance anywhere is the signal for an enormous crowd.

His fame probably dates back to the trial of the McNamara brothers for dynamiting a newspaper plant in Los Angeles during a labor disturbance. From that day he has been in constant demand.

His connection with the Loeb-Leopold murder case in Chicago and his defense of John Scopes in the Tennessee evolution case made his name a byword in almost every American home.

Arrangements for the ticket sale now are being made. It is believed that the chapel will scarcely be large enough to accommodate all the people who will want to hear Mr. Darrow.

VALLEY CITIES SEEK OUTLET TO OCEAN AND GULF

Gov. Blaine Gives His Approval to Waterways Project

Fond du Lac—Location of Fond du Lac and her Fox river valley cities on a system of federal waterways which could place the communities on direct routes from the great lakes to the Atlantic seaboard and Gulf of Mexico is proposed in a plan being fostered by the association for the relief of high water and by Gov. John J. Blaine. This announcement was made today following a conference between Allan H. Tripp of Oshkosh and Mayor J. D. Haentge.

STATE ENGINEERS TO AID State engineers, under the direction of Gov. Blaine with the cooperation of the relief association propose to present conclusive proof to government engineers that such a plan is feasible and that it would return sufficient revenue to warrant the necessary expenditure.

"I express the opinion of Gov. Blaine in saying that it is time for Wisconsin to look to the development of her waterways if she is to be numbered among the prosperous states," Mr. Tripp said. "Civil bodies, service clubs and individuals should take an active part in the development of waterways," he said.

Construction of the necessary locks and dams, widening and deepening of waterways and the improvement of the Upper Fox would provide a navigable stream, it is believed. The $410,000 improvement at Green Bay will connect Lake Winnebago with the Great Lakes waterways.

LITTLE CHUTE MAN IS HURT AT PAPER MILL

He stepped into the path of the bucket as it was ascending and was struck just above the ankle. He was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital by the Kunitz ambulance. He will be confined to the hospital for at least two weeks.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers From Indigestion or Stomach Trouble
CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach," says a well known authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis accompanied by dangerous stomach ulcers. Don't lose an acid stomach with peptic or artificial digestants that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little hot water and Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia, to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. It soaks up the harmful excess acid much as a sponge or blotting paper might and your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive. adv.

Kaukauna RepresentativeAPPLETON SIGNS
FOR GRID BATTLESchool Authorities Agree to Meet in Football Next Nov.
13

Kaukauna—Saturday, Nov. 13, is the date set for the annual football classic between Kaukauna and Appleton high schools, and the game this year will be played at Kaukauna. Last fall Kaukauna's gridiron warriors under the leadership of coach "Al" Allen, defeated the Orange and Green team of Appleton high school by trouncing the paper city pig skin chasers by the decisive score of 12 to 0 at Appleton. The contract for the game next fall was signed by athletic authorities of both schools Tuesday.

Social Items

A costume party and convalescence dinner is to be held after the next meeting on Feb. 15. Each member is to invite a friend. Girls who were members of the old organization may join the new society by giving their names to the new secretary Miss Brenzel.

LOTS OF DOGS STILL ARE WITHOUT LICENSES

Kaukauna—Every dog may have his day, but not by any means does every Kaukauna dog have his 1926 license, according to A. W. Lindstrom, city treasurer. Mr. Lindstrom says that only a small percentage of dog owners have obtained new licenses for their pets, as out of 838 licensed canines in the city in 1925 only about 70 are sporting the 1926 tags. All dogs in the city should have licenses by the end of February, Mr. Lindstrom said.

DELIVER LOGS
The first deliveries of logs for this season were made on Monday to the railroad yards here, where they are being stacked awaiting loading and shipment later. While logging as an industry assumes only modest proportions here, it is anticipated that several carloads will again be shipped from this point by spring.

Some of the logs which are being delivered this week come from the tracts of woodland where avenues of trees were felled last summer to accommodate the passage of the transmission line of the Wisconsin Gas & Electric Co. from here to the substation at Appleton.

The season's ice harvest at this place, which has begun several weeks ago, is leisurely progressing as the local consumers are completing the filling of their individual ice houses. Ice cream and soft drink parlors, the meat market and farmers are packing the largest supplies.

The ice is being procured from various sources. Farmers residing near the north branch of the Manitowish river are supplied from that stream, while others depend upon ponds. Much of the ice brought to the village was obtained from the Joseph Barth farm, four miles away, where a pond fed by natural springs insures a steady and wholesome supply.

The condition of the roads is such that motor trucks have been used almost exclusively for hauling.

STAGE And SCREEN

GEORGE O'BRIEN HAS
NEW TYPE ROLE IN
"THE FIGHTING HEART"

"Smiling George" O'Brien nails another rung in his ladder of different screen characterizations. In "The Fighting Heart," at the New Bijou Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the genial William Fox star portrays a role that is a wide contrast to any formerly characterized by him.

For the second time Smiling George comes under the direction of John Ford, brilliant Fox, director, who made the year's screen sensation, "The Iron Horse"—which scored heavily for both O'Brien and Ford.

Then came "The Fighting Heart"—this time a shy country lad—unwise in the ways of present day life for a part of the story, and literally hurled into the limelight through the medium of the boxing ring. Gradually the young man turns into a strong-willed up-to-date youth filled with snags and energy.

George O'Brien portrays the leading role in the Ford production and Billie Dove, Victor MacLaglen, J. Farrell MacDonald, Bert Woodruff, James Marcus, Francis Powers, Diana Miller and Francis Ford are cast in prominent supporting roles.

FILM HAS STAR CAST

With Leon Errol and Dorothy Gish in the leading roles, one of the most brilliant casts that have graced a film play has been recruited by Sam E. Rork for his new First National comedy, "Clothes Make the Pirate," which is showing at the Elite Theatre for the last time tonight.

In the supporting cast are Nita Naldi, James Rennie, Tully Marshall, Edna Murphy, George Marion, Ferdinand Barlow, Frank Lawler and Walter Law.

ANNA Q. NILSSON IS PRIM MATRON IN NEW PICTURE

Anna Q. Nilsson will be seen Thursday and Friday in the garb of a housewife—checked apron, gingham dress and all—when First National's latest feature picture, "Too Much Money," comes to the Elite Theatre, with Miss Nilsson and Lewis Stone in the featured roles.

Of course, the star wears beautiful clothes, too. But her real acting is done in a little Bronx apartment where, plainly garbed, she sweeps her own floor, scrubs her own sink and washes her own dishes.

In "Too Much Money," Miss Nilsson is the wife of Lewis Stone, a man with too much money for his own happiness. Her time is so taken up with social affairs that Stone decides to turn his wealth over to a friend and pose before his wife as a pauper.

"Too Much Money" is an adaptation of Israel Zangwill's stage hit of the same title. It was directed by John Francis Dillon, under the supervision of Earl Hudson. In the supporting cast are Robert Cain, Ann Brody, Edward Elkas, Dorothy King and Derek Glynn.

"THE VANISHING AMERICAN"
"The Vanishing American," Zane Grey's latest and greatest story to be screened by Paramount, overshadows any similar exposition ever written and establishes a new high mark in motion picture production. It is gigantic in spirit and presentation.

The picture, which is the feature at Fischers Appleton Theatre for the last time tonight, presents one of the biggest and most vital themes concerned with the history and civilization of the United States. It holds a deep element of tragedy from the Indian viewpoint, showing him disposed gradually of his lands and shown of his power by the white men's progress.

To build up the tremendous theme we are carried back to prehistoric times in spectacular scenes that are absorbingly interesting, showing how the Indians overcame the cliff-dwellers, and how, in turn, the coming of the Spaniards foretold the passing of the Indian.

Two years of preparation were put into this picture by the company that has been given the picture-going public such productions as "The Ten Commandments," "The Covered Wagon" and "Peter Pan."

Coming—Peter B. Kynes "THE GOLDEN STRAIN"

Factors in the sensational Chrysler "70" performance, which have revolutionized automobile design and manufacture, include—

- 70 miles and more per hour.
- 5 to 25 miles in 6 1/4 seconds.
- 20 miles to the gallon of fuel.
- 68 horse-power.
- Air-cleaner.
- Oil-filter.
- Radiometer.
- Thermostatic heat control.
- Furner for cold weather starting.
- Manifold heat control.
- Pivotal steering.
- No-side-sway springs.
- Low center of gravity.
- Balloon tires.
- Closed bodies by Fisher.
- Hydraulic four-wheel brakes.
- Watson Stabilizers—front and rear.
- Wide range of striking colors.
- Fedco theft-proof numbering device.
- Light controls on steering wheel.

Chrysler "70" alone combines all these and scores of other attributes joined to a superiority of design and fineness of quality and workmanship, heretofore thought possible only in cars of twice the Chrysler price.

Discriminating men and women are refusing to accept less than Chrysler gives. This extraordinary demand for Chrysler quality and value accounts for the ever-increasing production of the Chrysler "70"—a production which has steadily outgrown expanding factory capacity, and has established for the Chrysler "70" new popularity records for the industry.

We are eager to demonstrate each of these outstanding qualities to you at your convenience.

"TOTEM TOKENS" DECORATE LEGS OF PRETTY ACTRESS

Mrs. Lilyan Tashman, Hollywood actress, claims to have the most photographed legs of any members of the movie colony. Here she's demonstrating her latest fad—"totem tokens," little images that are worn strapped to the knee. Inset shows what they're like at close range.

A huge bus, loaded with human freight, passed safely over a Houston Tex. pavement, but a small coupe, following close behind, plunged into a seven-foot hole that opened in the asphalt and concrete. The driver escaped unhurt. Rain caused the freak washout.

Wee gold and silver stars for the knees of silk hose comprise the latest fad as demonstrated by Mrs. Grace Taylor, 17, of Cleveland. She wears the silver stars on gold hose and gold stars on silver hose. Stars, she adds, look just stunning on bare knees, too!

Here's another wrinkle girls—photographs of your boy friends on your dress buttons. Mrs. Loreta Haumann, of New York, is given credit for this one. The photos are glued to the buttons.

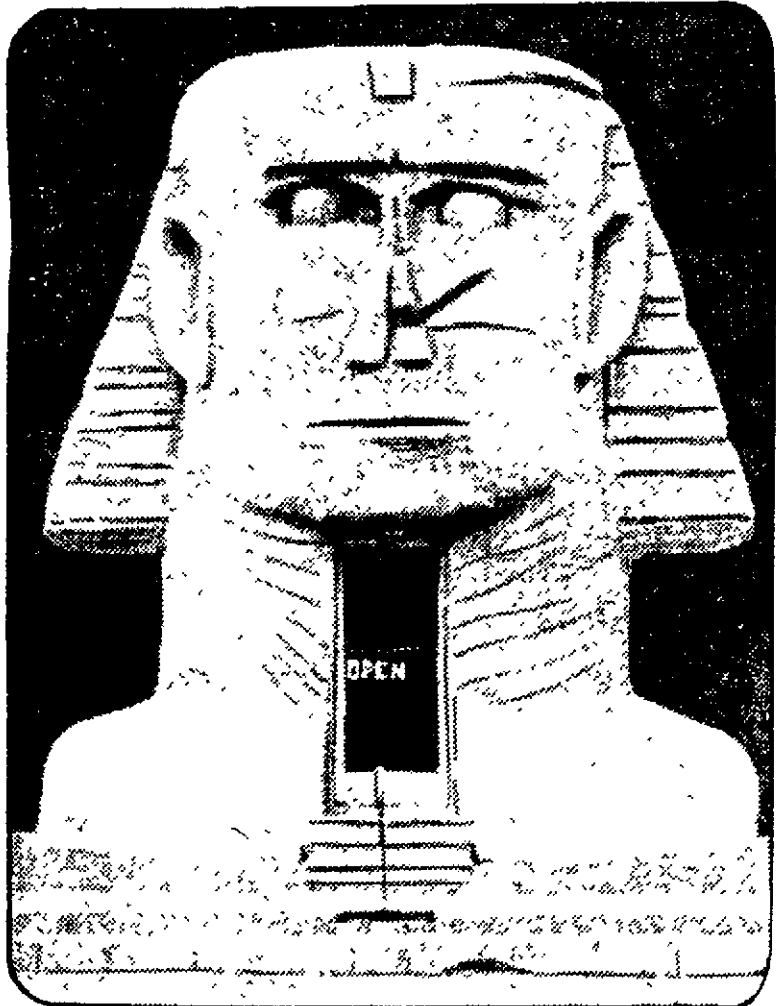

Regina Walker has introduced the "jumper" sleigh to Washington (D. C.) society. The jumper is much speedier than the ordinary sled and involves the additional thrill of forcing the rider to balance the sleigh while in motion.

Only once in 25 years can this picture be taken. Shows Pope Pius placing the first brick in the ceremony of closing the Vatican's Holy Door for another quarter of a century.

Hollywood home of movies, is a topsy-turvy town—so much so that even the business houses are affected. This shows a real estate office built like an Egyptian sphinx.

No, these aren't pouter pigeons, or sea monsters—they're just two freak sweet potatoes grown by Charles Eakin, 16, at Ironton, O.

Miss Helen Keller, shown above with President Coolidge, told the president he was not "cold" but "dear." The blind, deaf and dumb girl read the president's answer by placing her fingers on his wrist.

It was a rather rude awakening for George M. Peck Jr., aged 8, of San Diego, when his father's automobile plunged into the Peck home. The car's drive shaft broke as Mr. and Mrs. Peck reached the top of a hill nearby. The machine, after tearing out a corner timber of the house, stopped astraddle of the baby's bed. But George Jr. was unhurt.

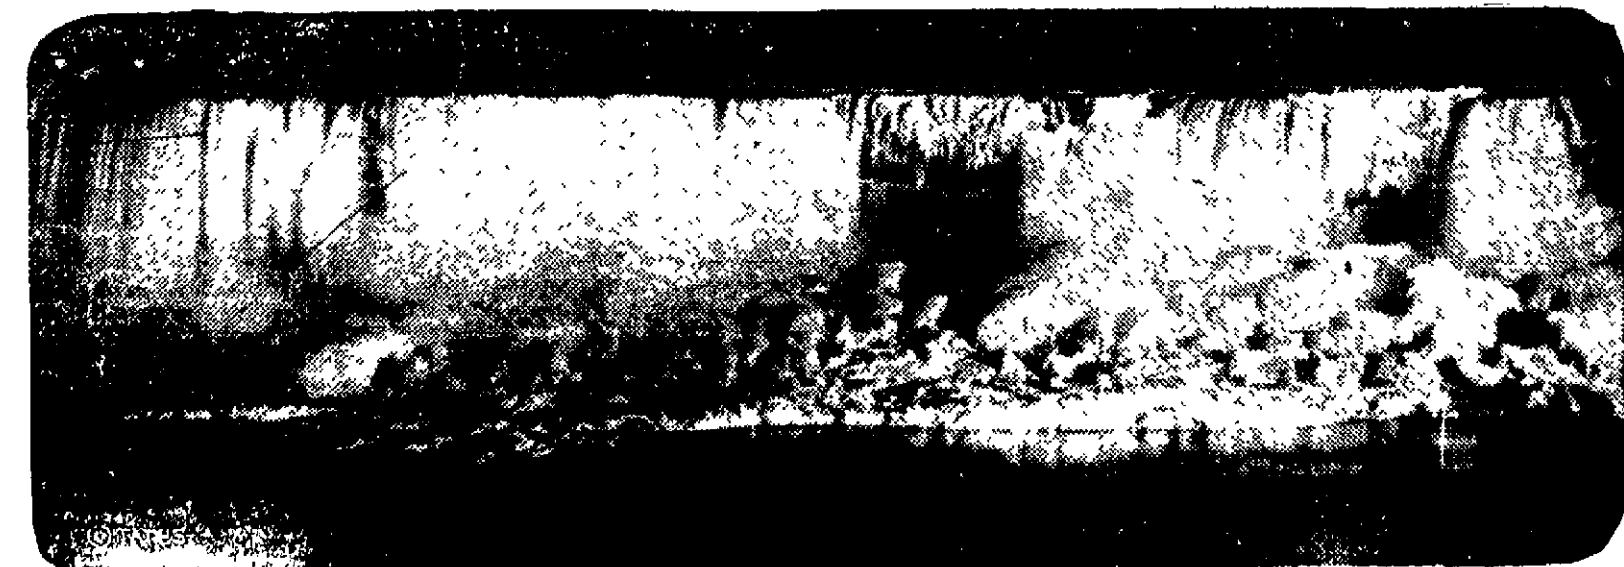

Miss Palungwa, an Eskimo maiden living in Baffin land, didn't spend much for her winter costume—but how it would cost if she bought it down here! She's wearing a genuine sealskin jacket, trousers of blue and white fur, fur and boots lined with polar bear skin. She is taking her little sister out for a walk.

After thirty years the International Canary Breeders Association has developed a white canary. It is shown getting a taste of sugar from Miss June Haffner, who will send it to Mrs. Coolidge.

A misstep and these iron workers would have been just a splash on the Broadway pavement, ten stories below. But they didn't miss. They're helping build a new theater.

APPLETON SCOUT BOARD ACCEPTS $2,750 BUDGET

C. O. Gochbauer Chosen Chairman of District Committee for Ensuing Year.

A budget of $2,750 for boy scout work in Appleton during the coming year was adopted at a meeting of the Appleton district committee in scout headquarters Tuesday night. This is the quota assigned to Appleton by the Valley council and which the committee will undertake to raise.

It was the organization meeting of the committee and resulted in the election of C. O. Gochbauer as chairman and John R. Reid as vice chairman. The executive committee members who will represent the committee on the Valley council are C. W. Cross, Stephen C. Rosebush, H. F. Heible, John Schneider, Henry Guckenbecker and Dr. G. W. Carlson. Another meeting of the committee will be held on Monday evening in order to perfect the organization. At that time chairmen will be chosen for the court of honor and finance, camping, training, troop organization, civic service, reading and publicity committees.

BELOW AVERAGE

While the Appleton budget is $250 higher than that of last year, it is considerably below the average in all the years that boy scout work has been active in this city. The largest budget ever adopted for Appleton was $5,500, which was in 1922.

In 1923 the city became a part of the Valley council and in that year a budget of $7,000 or $50 more than the present budget, was adopted for the entire territory. The new and enlarged territory of the Valley council will include all of Outagamie-co and New London, Neenah and Menasha. To conduct the affairs of scouting in this region, the council will need $6,950 this year, according to the estimate.

A feature of the council's 1926 budget is the reduction in overhead and operating expenses in order to make more funds available for the boy program and equipment, which is the principal program of the scout movement.

In past year the amount allowed for the boy program and equipment has been as low as $14.50. This was in 1920 when the movement was still in its infancy here. In 1922 this allowance was increased to $400 and the following year under the organization of the Valley council $650 was allotted for that activity. In the same year the budget item for operating and overhead was put down at $6,350.

By subsequent reduction in administration costs, such as executive salary, transportation, telephone, postage, furniture and fixtures and miscellaneous expense, the council is now able to frame a budget of $2,750 for overhead and operating expense and allow $2,450 for boy program and equipment.

LITTLE SALVAGE FROM BANKRUPT TOY FIRM

General creditors of the Toy Company of America, which was declared bankrupt last April, are having a final hearing Wednesday afternoon at the office of C. E. Behnke, referee in bankruptcy. It is said that most creditors probably will receive less than 1 per cent of their claims as the claims total approximately $103,000, and assets are about $300. It was probable that more claims would be produced before the hearing, Mr. Behnke said.

NO HARD JOB TO WIN PUCK TITLE TEN YEARS AGO

"Appleton had a team of hockey players which claimed the championship of the Fox river valley. It consisted of boys averaging 15 years of age. Herbert Voeks was manager of the team."

This little item appearing in the 10 year ago column of the Post-Crescent on Monday may not have been of interest to some of the readers, but it certainly caused a lot of comment among some young men of the city, many of whom were members of the "championship" puck team. Herbert Voeks manager of the team is at present employed at the Citizens National Bank and he came in for a lot of "kidding" by his friends Tuesday. Herb got quite a kick out of it himself, however, and he related to his friends all about the squad and just how it took the valley title.

NEED STATE AID TO KEEP HIGHWAYS OPEN IN WINTER

Engineer Tells Road School of Efforts to Make Winter Travel Possible

Madison -- (AP) -- State aid in snow removal is needed in Wisconsin. F. F. Mengel, Wisconsin Rapids, division engineer of the state highway commission, declared Wednesday at the annual Road School conducted here by the commission.

"Snow removal is a problem that must be met and it is my opinion that as soon as we become accustomed to it, it will become a part of the regular maintenance of our roads," Mr. Mengel said. "We need legislation making it possible for the state to participate in the cost of removing the snow."

Various methods of removing snow and preventing drifts were described by the engineer. He said the commission's records show that 30 counties are making an effort to keep some of their roads open to travel. "They expect to keep open approximately 900 miles of road and have available for this purpose approximately $111,600," he said. "There are thirty 10-ton tractors equipped with V-type plows; five 10-ton tractors equipped with rotary plows, thirty-four trucks equipped with mould board and V-type plows, and sixty miles of snow fence erected. This does not include any equipment used by the towns, cities or motor bus companies. A conservative estimate shows that the counties have approximately $120,000 invested in snow-plows and fences, and an additional $365,000 in tractors and trucks which are used for this work as well as work throughout the summer months."

"It has been demonstrated that where the roads are kept open to travel, business is better; people are able to get to town to purchase the articles that they need and attend to social functions and theatres. Doctors are able to get out into the country to make sick calls, and we have better fire protection. In other words, the whole scheme of life is carried on in the winter just about the same as in the summer."

HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION STUDIED AT ROAD SCHOOL

Concrete paving, grading, snow removal and similar subjects were on the program. The speakers included Gordon F. Daggett, materials engineer of the state highway commission; H. D. Blake, location engineer; J. R. McLean, Superior, division engineer; F. F. Mengel, Wisconsin Rapids, division engineer; C. R. Weymouth, design engineer; and F. M. Bales, construction engineer.

Professor Leonard S. Smith of the University of Wisconsin will tell Wednesday of traffic studies in American cities and Frank A. Cannon, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Good Roads association will talk on the progress of transportation.

Lincoln county won the Milwaukee Journal cup for the county highway organization judged to have made the greatest advance in maintenance and highway service in the state in 1925. H. H. Kuehling, Merrill, is county highway commissioner.

NO IMPROVEMENT IN FOREIGN RECEPTION

Here and there a hardy radio listener was able to tune in and identify an European station Tuesday night but as a general rule radio listeners here have had very little success during international test week.

Reception Tuesday night was spoiled by violent air disturbances and there was considerable difficulty in bringing in distant American stations.

All American stations will be silent again on Wednesday and Thursday nights from 10 until 11 o'clock. On Friday night American stations will be on the air during the test periods but the country will be divided into districts and stations in one district at a time will be broadcasting.

WANTS BIG SUM FOR LOSS OF HIS WIFE'S CARESSES

Louis Orphal, Wausau, former Appleton resident, has filed a complaint with the clerk of court of Marathon-co in which he asks a judgment of $25,000 from George Steckle, Wausau, on the ground that Steckle has alienated his wife's affections. Mr. and Mrs. Orphal were married in Appleton in 1916, according to the complaint, and got along well until they moved to Wausau where Mrs. Orphal met Steckle. Orphal charges that on Sept. 10, 1925 his wife took her personal belongings and moved to another residence. Steckle has been arrested and placed under a bond of $500 to insure his appearance when the case is called for trial in circuit court.

COMMISSION IS HURRYING STUDY OF CAR CO. PLEA

But It Will Be Weeks Before
Decision Is Made, Neenah
Is Informed

Neenah—A report of findings of the Wisconsin Railway commission on the petition of Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat & Power Co., to abandon the interurban service between Appleton and this city will not be forthcoming for several weeks according to a letter received Tuesday afternoon from the railway commission by H. S. Zemlock, city clerk.

The letter follows:
"Please be advised that the hearing in this case was held on Nov. 19, and at the hearing vigorous protest against an order from the commission to find that further services was unnecessary was made by the city of Neenah and citizens living along the right of way between Neenah and Appleton, also by city of Appleton through its Chamber of Commerce and city attorney and others.

"As you are aware, the set up presented in the petition of the carriers indicated that the company had operated at a loss of several thousand dollars for some years past, the loss gradually becoming greater each year. In such a circumstance it is clear to anyone that the only thing this commission could do was to thoroughly analyze the set up of the railway, bring the appraisal of their property up to date, and make a complete audit of their accounts covering the years in which it is alleged deficit has obtained.

"Just as soon as the transcript was written in the case our statistical department was instructed to make the above mentioned audit. In view of the verbal statements made before and after the hearing that the citizens of Neenah and Menasha were anxious that the matter be disposed of at once, this case was given precedence over cases of less urgent nature that in the usual course of events would have taken their turn before this case and our accountants were sent to Appleton and were there within 10 days after the hearing was held. We know you will realize that to make a thorough audit for several years of a concern as large as that, and especially complicated by the necessity of allocating to a certain portion of the track accounts that have not been kept separately, required considerable work and our accountants finished the field work on this point only Tuesday of this week. They are now engaged in completing their work in the office.

"It will be some weeks before that can be completed and this commission absolutely cannot make its findings until the work of the engineers and accountants has been completed. As already stated the case is being given special consideration and will continue to do so until disposed of. This is the best the commission can do in the matter."

ORANGE CAGERS WILL ENTERTAIN FONDY FRIDAY

Game With Coach Fruth's Men Will Be Crucial Tilt For Appleton High Quintet

Fond du Lac, After Losing to Sheboygan, Has Recovered Strength

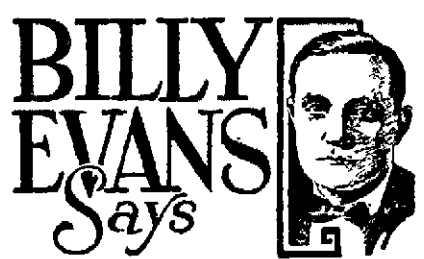

Appleton high school basketball team will play its crucial game of the season at Fond du Lac Friday evening against Fond du Lac. Although Coach Fruth's men dropped one tilt to Sheboygan, they displayed great power by defeating both Oshkosh and Marinette high schools and have developed into one of the most feared aggregations in the valley loop. If Appleton comes out on top, it will have mounted the most difficult obstacle in the way of a successful season, according to Coach MacAuliffe.

The Orange squad emerged from the Neenah fray of Friday last in good condition, as well as with much valuable experience. That the local youths absorbed something of combating tough tactics was demonstrated in the second half when they held their opponents almost scoreless and stepped to the front themselves for a close win.

An effort to improve the team's passing and scoring is being made this week by Coach MacAuliffe. Defense is not being forgotten, of course, but it is in the first two departments, rather than the last, that the squad is still deficient.

With the announcement late last week of the eligibility of Frank Cookson, Al Cookson and Heibert Lutz, the opportunity of rounding out a well developed team appears less difficult. Although not regulars, these youths present some excellent basketball material, capable of speedy development and their addition to the squad will be welcome.

Al Cookson, a center, is a sophomore, while his brother is a junior. Both he and Heibert Lutz, a second year man, are forwards. They are working out with the Orange men now and are improving noticeably.

BILLY EVANS Says

GRIFITH JOKES
It looks as if the Washington players, American League champs, are concentrating on Owner Clark Griffith.

By his own admission, 23 of his athletes are still unsigned and spring training only a little more than a month away.

There is something almost prophetic in that number 23, same being the total unsigned athletes. In baseball, Griffith has always been known as the "Old Fox." His cunning is in for a severe test.

"I will start the season with a managerless team of bush leaguers unless Manager Harris and the rest of the holdouts agree to terms," says Griffith from the shade of the sheltered palms in Florida.

Of course he is only kidding, slipping the boys the oil, hoping some of them will fall for it, and get under cover.

Incidentally it is hardly possible that Roger Peckinpaugh will be replaced by Buddy Myers or Muddy Ruel by Tate, as rumored.

However, holdouts thrive when the snow is on the ground. Spring with its baseball weather often causes them to forget their winter threats.

WINTER HOLDOUTS

BETTER pitching is the crying need of every major league ball club. Every big league manager would welcome the addition of one or more capable pitchers.

In their hunt for likely talent many of the major league managers have resorted to the thought of recruiting such men from the leagues of higher classification.

With certain exceptions, most of the leading pitchers in the lower minor leagues are discarded from the majors, hurled just shy of being regarded as regulars.

Last spring when I staid up the Indianapolis club at Plant City, Fla., Manager Donnie Bush of that club told me he regarded Pitcher Bill Burwell as one of the most valuable pitchers in the league.

"Burwell is smart, has the courage and mixes them up," said Bush. "His fast ball may not be good enough for the majors, but he is a big winner in the American Association."

The averages of the American Association recently published certainly made good Bush's prediction.

PITCHERS SCARCE

Bill Burwell, considered not good enough for the St. Louis Browns, won 24 and lost only 9 games, ranking first in the matter of earned runs.

Also three other pitchers in the association won 20 or more games, Ray Kopp, Nick Cullip and Joe Delberry at various times were members of the St. Louis Browns. All were waived out of the league.

In 1923 Dean of Louisville was the pitching sensation of the association. McGraw recently sent him to Philadelphia in a trade for the veteran Jimmy Ring.

In 1924, Jesse Petty won 29 and lost only 8 games with Indianapolis. He looked great in spring training. Brookline gave $25,000 for him and three players, yet the best he could do in the National last season was break even, winning and losing 9 games.

These concrete examples make it apparent what a tough time major league clubs have in attempting to strengthen their pitching staff.

Appleton American Legion basketball squad dropped another notch in the Eastern Wisconsin league standings Tuesday evening when it was treated to a 16 to 10 defeat at the hands of the league leading Kimberly-Clark Athletics at Kimberly. The loss places the local league entrants two full games behind the second place Fond du Lac team.

Although the score was close throughout the tilt, Kimberly took a slight lead at the opening of the encounter and maintained it throughout the fray. The score at the close of the initial quarter was 8-5, at the half 10-5 and at the end of the third quarter 13-9.

Schweger, forward for the legionaires lead his teammates in the scoring column with two field goals. Koll was high point setter for the Kimberly team, caging three field goals and a like number of free throws.

A return game will be played here between the two teams at Army G Thursday evening, starting at 8:15. In an effort to defeat the Athletics, a feat which no team in the league has yet been able to accomplish. The lineup of the Appleton squad will be strengthened considerably by the addition of MacAuliffe and Basing, speedy performers on Frings's Specials. This will be the first meeting of the two aggregations at Appleton.

With these two stars as a nucleus, the legionnaires should present a formidable array when they line up against the team from the neighboring village. It will be the strongest effort thus far on the part of Appleton to put a clump in the pace of the Kimberly outfit.

A preliminary game between Appleton Vocational school and the Twenty Five of Kaukauna will be held, starting at 7:30.

COBB, SPEAKER AND COLLINS ARE HONORED

Chicago (AP)—New niches in the American League's hall of fame, whose roster now holds seven names, have been filled by Ty Cobb, Detroit Tiger's manager, Tim Lincecum, Cleveland Indian's mentor, and Ed Collins, Chicago White Sox pitcher.

Placed in the most valuable pitcher in 1911, 1912, and 1914, respectively, by an unofficial jury of experts in those years, they take their places beside George Sisler, Babe Ruth, Walter Johnson and Roger Peckinpaugh, named since 1922 under the league's plan of an annual award, for its distinguished players.

In announcing the selections, Ban Johnson, president of the league, said the league's plan for a baseball memorial to be erected in Washington had been delayed, but not abandoned because the house of representatives withheld its consent to the plan after the senate approved it.

CRITICS PICK LENGLEN TO DEFEAT U. S. CHAMP

New York (AP)—William T. Tilden, national tennis champion, and Samuel Hardy, captain of 1920 Davis cup team, think Susanne Lenglen will defeat Helen Wills.

Hardy, in a copyright article in the New York Telegram, Wednesday says that he fears Miss Wills will be beaten several times during her invasion of European courts.

Miss Lenglen, he argues, has no defect in her style. She is faster than the American, playing on her toes all the time, while Miss Wills is too much on her heels, and as a strategist Susanne is a champion.

Tilden has told the Brooklyn Eagle that Miss Wills might win on home courts or at Wimbledon, but because of unfamiliar environment has little chance of victory on the Riviera.

"As a strategist Miss Wills is not in Lenglen's class," says Tilden. Helen may have a poker face but Susanne has a 'chess brain'.

Rumors Have Helen Wills Refusing Marriage Offers

Paris (AP)—Rumors are going the rounds that Miss Helen Wills has received offers of marriage from a member of the British aristocracy and from a professional tennis player.

Both offers were rejected. Matrimony is not in the program of Miss Wills at present. She is declared to have conveyed knowledge of this fact to her suitors.

"I won't deny that I have had offers of marriage and I won't confirm the rumor," said the American champion Wednesday.

"But," she added "if you are a betting man, please lay odds that I shall return to California single, if not singles champion."

Ten thousand francs against 6,000 that Suzanne Lenglen will win over Miss Wills when they meet over the net Wednesday at the end of match between the American girl and Miss Lenglen, whom she disposed of easily 6-1, 6-0. Even money was offered that Helen would not win more than seven games from the French flash and that she would lose in straight sets. This money also went begging a week ago Miss Lenglen was the favorite, to win, but the experts all believe now that the American champion is holding something in reserve and therefore have shortened their odds.

Suzanne Lenglen is to take a week's rest, while Miss Wills will get her much needed exercise by playing through the galla tournament, both in the singles and mixed doubles.

Just when and where Suzanne and Helen will meet has not been definitely determined. Suzanne said Tuesday evening that she would decide next Saturday in what tournament she would participate in the singles. She added that she would like to play at Nice next Monday but that she might be prevented by circumstances over which she has no control.

"I will be delighted to meet Miss Wills," Suzanne continued, "but I cannot risk injuring my health. If my physical condition does not warrant my playing in my dear home town of Nice next Monday then I must meet her in the Christian Hotel tournament in Cannes, Feb. 5."

MILWAUKEE LOSES TO LACROSSE, 30-26

Milwaukee (AP)—Milwaukee Normal school basketball team was defeated here Tuesday night by the La Crosse Normal school team 30 to 26 in a hard played game. La Crosse played a long shooting game, taking the ball off the boards on the rebound where their superior size gave them the advantage. At one time Milwaukee lead by 11 to 4 but La Crosse evened the count to 17 all at the half.

Citizens Bank basketball team took possession of a commanding lead in the Y. M. C. A. Industrial league Tuesday evening by virtue of an easy 29-13 victory over the last place Footlitters. Although sharing the top rung honors with the Zwicker Knitters, the Bankers have won two more games, four in all, and it is a lead which gives them a good start in the race.

The Footlitters had little chance against the snappy, passing and accurate shooting of the winners. The Bankers assumed an early lead and were never headed. Copps played superbly for the losers while McKenzie was the star for the Bankers with six field goals.

The Menasha P. and C. Co. stepped up to a tie for second place with the Fox River Co. as a result of its win over the Riverside squad, 16-11. The tilt was close from the opening quarter.

Two field goals by the winners shortly before the close of the game gave the Menasha team a four point lead, but the Riverside players retaliated with a field goal and free toss, falling short of the P. and C. Co. score by one point. The Appleton team failed to increase its total during the final minute of play.

Harry Hilton, former Lawrence freshman star, was the big point getter for the Riverside squad. Remmell who starred on the Menasha high school team of a year or so back, played best for the P. and C. Co.

The schedule for Saturday evening will see the Appleton Coated Paper Co. in action against the Zwicker Knitters and the Fox River Co. pitted with the Neenah-Kimberly Clark Co.

BOWLING

With The CHAMP
By Jimmy Smith

MAKING SPLITS
GREAT batters often find their junx in certain pitchers in bowling the split is the nemesis of every pastime. More harsh utterings are voiced when a split "turns up" than at any other time during a match.

The split is something that a bowler simply "runs" into every now and then. In a way it's hard to guard against. It just pops up, that's all. Hitting the head pin full often results in a mean split. Not necessarily, though. For I've seen many strikes made in the same manner.

The breaks of the game, and bowling certainly has its breaks, invariably bring about a bad split. Sometimes a pin will "refuse" to fall after having "launched" considerably. The result is, instead of getting nine pins on your initial attempt with a spare almost a certainty, you only get eight and have a mean split to "run down."

In trying for splits, I shoot a "thin" ball for the pin nearest to the center and farthest from the pit. I aim to hit or "shave" it on the outside (the gutter side) and thus send it toppling in the direction of the other pin. If the execution is perfect, a spare results.

Don't play it like you would a carom shot in billiards. For you aren't apt to meet with much success. The other way is by far the more practical.

Of course in case of a three-pin split, it's always advisable to try for a corner in the first ball so you are pretty certain of cutting a pair down. It's well to be satisfied with two out of three.

Tomorrow: Control.

Eight Teams Have Title Chance In Big Ten Race

BY ART CARLSON

It looks like anybody's race in the Western Conference basketball league this season.

Or, to be a bit more precise, I should better say at least eight of the 10 teams shape up as championship possibilities.

Northwestern and Minnesota, alone, seem to be outclassed, though the chase is in its infancy, and even the Purple and Gophers may yet cause plenty of trouble.

Michigan, Illinois, Ohio State and Wisconsin, especially, loom dangerous. Michigan has one of the best teams that school ever turned out. In Doyle, Cherry, Harrison, Chambers, Voelenda and Osterbaum, it boasts six stellar performers.

Doyle, Cherry and Chambers are veterans left over from last year's quintet. Molenda and Osterbaum you remember as sophomore stars on Michigan's famous football machine last fall. Harrison is an asset to any cage combination.

Michigan has never had a clear claim to the Big Ten hunting. In 1921 it tied with Purdue and Wisconsin for the title, winning eight games and losing four. A sensational sport near the end of the season put it over.

MICHIGAN FINISHED SIXTH
Last year Michigan finished fifth with six victories against five reverses. It was the only team to beat the champions, Ohio State, in conference competition. The Wolverines had the great Haggerty then. This year they haven't. But Coach Mather has enough stars to offset the departure of the 1925 leader.

Illinois has a team of veterans in Russell and Daugherty, the Orange and Blue has one of the best forwards in the organization. Daugherty, who, by the way is quite a grid-ding, was well up the individual scoring list last year. He looks even better this campaign. Against Michigan he scored 17 points, getting more than half the Illinois total. Lape, Maurer, Haines and Kassel are all basketballers of the first degree.

Ohio State, while not as strong as in 1925, looks formidable. Cunningham and Tarbet are clever fellows, the former rating as the best center in the conference. Dempsey, a newcomer, has starred in the early games.

WISCONSIN IS STRONG

Wisconsin, which has won more titles than any of the other schools, apparently is back in the running after having had a poor season a year ago. The Badgers haven't a senior on the outfit. But Brooks, Behr and Barnum are all good men.

Iowa's in much the same fix, having no two-year chaps. Van Deusen and McConnell stand out strongly, however, as does Phillips, a fast and clever shooting forward.

Indiana, Purdue and Chicago will also bear watching. Purdue usually turns out first-class cage teams and this year appears to be no exception. Northwestern and Minnesota, as mentioned, started badly, each dropping its first three games. The Purdue boasts a star in "Moon" Baker, the footballer, while the Gophers have a high ranking forward in Rasey.

In a word the 1926 Big Ten chase should be one of the closest struggles in the history of the circuit. And there have been some pretty tight battles in the past, too, which, then, is saying plenty.

Some Points For Success In Business

By NEA Service.

Stanford University Calif. — Take your job seriously, girls. Stop, look and listen instead of chat, powder and flirt!

And you will become successful. The American business girl is a new type. Had she been born in another century she would have been subordinated. But now she is economically independent.

Through the pages of Stanford records for a decade, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Snell, motherly appointment secretary of this university, has watched "her girls" leave the halls of learning for the business offices and industrial employment. She has followed them to know their experience, and she has learned that:

They take the job too lightly. They spend too much time in playing a new skirt or a new hat. They are wasteful of their physical reserve—dancing night-times, playing bridge, cutting new clothes.

When they are serious in their work, when they take the same attitude toward it as men do then they are successful.

"College girls and girls without university training have everything in common," Mrs. Snell says. "In the business world they are sisters under the skin, they have the same successes and same failures."

NEW PHYSICAL RESERVE. "When women cease to exhibit new clothing made the night before they will acquire a new physical reserve," she asserts, and attends the question: "You never see a man display his new trousers before the office force."

Mrs. Snell believes that woman's greatest weakness is her own conviction that she is the weaker. And believing that she capitalizes her weakness, or rather takes advantage of it by neglecting her physical reserve, by not taking work seriously and by not expecting to be taken seriously.

"Women were properly once, but now they are individuals with the right to own property themselves—and if they fail to take their place in the world it is because they still hold man responsible, because they do not want to be responsible themselves."

STAND UP WITH MEN. "By standing up and walking on even plane with men, by being earnest in their work, the business woman has every opportunity presented men," Mrs. Snell finds.

"But that very privilege of taking time in the middle of work to chatter and powder is the shackle that keeps her down—she is granted privileges because she is feminine, and she takes them because she is working as a pastime or until the day of marriage. Let her work with man, accept no allowances for her weakness, and she shall be a success."

FAMILY WANTS VARIATION IN SERVING FOOD

A popular variation of the usual method of baking potatoes may be what the family wants. After the potatoes have been baked, remove the pulp through a cross-cut in the top of each and whip up as usual with cream, butter, and seasonings. Before serving, put back into the shells and return to the oven to warm and brown.

Left-over meat may be chopped or cut in small pieces and added to the potatoes before refilling the shells.

"Potatoes in pockets" always suggest more to those who have tasted them. To make, cut a slice from the side of each baked potato and remove the pulp. Add cream, butter, and seasoning and the beaten whites of two eggs (for every six potatoes). Refill the "pockets" and return to the oven for six or seven minutes, or until the egg white has had time to cook.

Cheese makes a pleasing addition to baked potatoes. Melt four ounces of cheese in four tablespoons of hot milk and mix potatoes pulp. Season, whip, return to potato half shells, and brown as before.

FASHION HINTS

SPRING SCARVES. Spring scarves are in pastel colors, sometimes shaded from dark to light. The vivid batik scarf is passing out.

METAL LACES IN INTERESTING PATTERNS ARE VOGUE

By HENRI BENDEL.

When fashions are so very feminine as they are today, and when every tendency is to make them more graceful and softer in line lace is bound to be fashionable.

Lace is the most feminine of all trimmings and one that has been decidedly neglected the past few seasons.

When the craze for beading and embroidery and colorful trimmings swept the country it overshadowed lace and made it of little consideration except on the lingerie frock and the negligee.

Last season dyed laces were introduced and became very popular for afternoon wear, but made very little headway for evening. This season metal laces were brought out in much softer weaves and more interesting patterns than before, and they are growing in popularity.

RICH EFFECT. Gold or silver lace, in the light weaves, gives a very rich effect, and brightened with colorful flowers of vivid satin or velvet, it makes an exceedingly youthful combination as well.

Debutantes and the younger set very much prefer the metal laces to the metal fabrics or brocades that are harder and more lustrous and more mature in feeling.

And now, metal laces and dyed laces having successfully fought for their position, the rest of the lace family is staging a comeback even in white, ecru and the natural lace tints.

Some of the newest evening gowns are featuring lace, not for the entire costume, but for trimming. As an example of the effective use of lace, I direct your attention to the model photographed on the right.

MOLDED BODICE. This dress is made of silver cloth maintaining the slim silhouette by means of a molded bodice and fullness introduced below the hips. Diamond-shaped sections of cream-colored lace are applied to the skirt as to give the effect of godets and to break the straight hemline into points.

At the shoulder is a panel, offering a most satisfying substitute for a scarf or for a sleeve. It may be wound about the arm in the French manner or worn about the neck, or may even be tied on a bow at the shoulder, which is another French idea.

Here is a dress that is simple enough to please the most exacting, and yet it has distinction and decorated novelty. For the woman who desires ornamentation, but who demands that a costume have individuality and class as well as simplicity, this is ideal.

STREET COSTUME. The street costume, at the left is also designed for the woman who prefers lace to trimming. It is one of the new, simpler costumes, with heavy long blouse and belt at the hip line made up in the new soft twist that is as soft as cashmere and comes in the most delightful colors as well as in the most delicate shades.

With such a costume the wearer can do no better than stick to the tiny felt hat.

Both these models are designed for the southland, but they are also advance spring models.

A Free Baking Booklet. Some kind of bread is served on the average American table three times a day. The quality of that bread is an important matter. The food value depends on the materials which go into it, whether it is made at home or in the bakery. The Baking Booklet has been planned primarily as a guide in home baking, but through its discussion of materials it offers help also in the choice of commercial baked products.

This invaluable offering is a free Government publication, and our Washington Information Bureau will secure a copy for any reader who fills out and mails the coupon below, enclosing two cents in stamps for return postage. Write your name and address clearly.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth," bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

WEAR WIGS OF COLORFUL YARN AT MASK BALL

You can make your own wig for February masked balls and carnivals if you exercise a little ingenuity. A few hanks of yarn, an old buckram hat frame or skullcap, and a needle and thread are the only requirements.

First, decide on your color scheme and type of coiffure.

If you decide to buy an inexpensive buckram frame, cut off the brim and then slit up the crown on all sides so that you can fit it closely to the head. Now tack it together in this exactly correct size and sew on the yarn. Center or side parts in these homemade wigs are made by pulling the strands of yarn through the buckram from the under side. In cases where the material is too close to permit this punch holes through it with an embroidery stylus in a straight line and very near to the frame, and let the yarn hang in long strands like hair. To make braided or ring wigs you need only braid the long ends and roll them up. Pin them up temporarily with hairpins until you have tried it on. When you adjust them to exactly the right place sew them down securely. Elaborate colonial powdered wigs and the like require more yarn sewed on in several layers. Short, curly, standing-up bobs must be made of short strands of yarn all pulled through from the other side of the frame. They must be very thick, so that when they are clipped they will stand up all over the head. These wigs are particularly becoming made in flaming red, orange, blue or green, provided, of course, that the rest of your costume is somber.

GLOSSY YARN BEST. Buy the fine glossy yarn that is used for knitting, baby sweaters or other garments. The coarse variety does not have the sheen that resembles that of natural, healthy hair.

Delicious coiffures made in this fashion, featuring scraggly topknots, are funny for hard time parties.

USE SOAP AND WATER TO WASH BRAIDED RUGS

Rugs of the washable type are becoming more and more popular every day. There are the old-fashioned rag rugs, woven or braided, various other sorts of fabric rugs and even hooked yarn rugs which have to be cleaned if they are used constantly.

Washing with soap and water is really the only satisfactory method of cleaning these rugs. And in spite of the general impression, they almost as easily without a washing machine as with one.

For hand washing of rugs, the equipment consists of a wide table or bench, a stiff scrubbing brush and a bar of laundry soap or box or chipped soap.

Spread the rug over the table. Soak with water and sprinkle well with soap chips or rub the surface with white naphtha soap. This will cleanse thoroughly without fading even blues or pinks.

With the brush scrub the surface vigorously, adding more soap and water if necessary. Move the rug along until it is all scrubbed. Then rinse thoroughly—the quickest way is to hang it on the line and turn the hose on it. If this is not feasible, scrub it with clear water until all traces of soap are removed. Hang straight on the line to dry in a shady airy place.

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY

Breakfast—Stewed dried peaches, cereal, thin cream, creamed dried beef on toast, crisp buttered toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Creamed oysters on toast, apple and celery salad, oatmeal cookies, milk, tea.

Dinner—Pork chops and apples en casserole, boiled sweet potatoes, creamed onions, grape fruit salad, bran rolls, steamed cranberry pudding, milk, coffee.

The hearty meal for children under school age was served at noon time, consequently their evening meal may consist of a dish of cereal, one or two tablespoons of finely chopped onion without the sauce, shredded lettuce, the crust of a roll with butter and milk.

PORK CHOPS AND APPLES. Allow one or two chops for each person to be served, depending on the size of the chops and the appetites of the persons. Wipe chops with a damp cloth and put a layer in a lightly greased casserole. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and cover with a thick layer of apples, pared and cored and cut in thin slices. Dust the apples lightly with cinnamon and one or two tablespoons of sugar.

Continue layer for layer of meat and apples until all the meat is used. The last layer should be of apples. Add one-half to one cup of boiling water, cover casserole and bake for one hour in a moderate oven. Remove the cover for the last 15 minutes of baking to brown the top.

TO CLEAN IVORY. Ivory knife handles may be whitened by rubbing with half a lemon dipped in salt.

LINE FISH PANS. Baking pans used for fish will not retain the disagreeable odor if they are lined with waxed paper before baking.

KILL CABBAGE ODOR. Two whole English walnuts, dropped in the kettle while boiling cabbage, will absorb all the unpleasant odor, which otherwise goes into the house.

ASHES CLEAN SILVER. Cigar or cheap cigarette ashes, used on a moist cloth or chamois, make a good silver polish.

LIVING FOR CUT GLASS. A little bluing, added to the water in which cut glass is being washed, will make it clear and sparkling.

FOR ROASTING. The white meat of a roasted turkey or chicken will be much better if the bird is placed breast down in the roaster.

SEED GREEN PEPPERS. Remove the seeds from green peppers before cooking. Although the peppers are sweet, the seeds may be hot, and will impart this flavor to the cooked peppers.

SUGAR IN OIL. Two lumps of loaf sugar (to a quart) placed in olive oil will prevent it from becoming rancid. If the oil is sold in a can, empty into glass as soon as opened and add the sugar.

SALT PREVENTS CURD. A pinch of salt added to salad dressings will prevent or remove

CHOOSE COLOR OF CURTAINS AS TO LOCATION

The color of your window draperies plays an important role in the assembled whole. There should, of course, be consideration for the general decorative scheme. However, one big factor to guide your choice is the direction in which your windows face.

If sunlight pours through them from the south or west, then cool tones should be used. But if the light is pale and gray from the northern sky or from the almost equally cool eastern sky, then warm colors must supply the cheer and brightness that the room will naturally lack.

Side draperies which hang in straight folds to the floor will give a window an appearance of greater height. Draperies that extend only to the sill, or to the bottom of the apron, will cut down the height of the window. Draperies that are looped against the side casements with the tiebacks appear less tall than those that hang straight. And valances introduce definite horizontal planes which appear to lessen the height and to add to the width of a window.

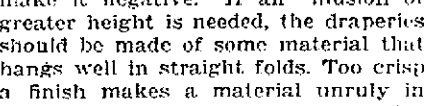

To further augment the effects established by the style of drapery used, one should choose a material that will add to that effect and not make it negative. If an illusion of greater height is needed, the draperies should be made of some material that hangs well in straight folds. Too crisp a finish makes a material unruly in this respect. Take organdie, for instance. By the time it is subdued and creased in straight, dignified folds, its freshness is gone—and its charm with it. Linens, heavy cretonnes, silks, cotton reps and all fabrics that can be trained to hang straight are excellent for use at the window which need must appear taller.

If figured material is used, choose a fabric suited to the style you have decided on. A broad design will add to the illusion of greater width; a perpendicular design will augment the effect of greater height.—The Designer.

Adventures Of The Twins

Trouble in Hidy Go Land
"Now see here," said Nancy severely to the dolls in Hidy Go Land. "When people go on a visit they are supposed to be pleasant. It's all your own fault if you aren't happy and I feel sorry for poor Mister Havalook."
"Well, I should be happy if I could get starched," said Limber Legs, flapping his arms as if that settled the matter.
"And I should if I could unbind," said the Tin Soldier stiffly.
"And I should if I could get my hoop-skirts fixed," said the Crinoline Doll with a sniff.
"Well, foh de lous' sake!" cried Black Dinah. "If there ain't a big box of starch a starin' us all right in the face. If it wuz a snake it would be bit us."
At the Hidy Go people turned and stared.
"And there—sure enough—was the starch."
"Is my washing finished yet?" called Mister Havalook down the laundry stairs again.
"Just about, sah," answered Black Dinah, putting on the kettle and dumping some starch out into a pan.
Before long Mister Havalook's washing was flopping on the line.
But other things were flopping on the line, too, and he called the Twins into his tinkering room where he was putting a new spring in Jack-in-the-Box's neck.
"What do I see, my dears? I'm a little nearsighted, but there is something on my wash line that I never wore in my life. Can you tell me what it is, or what they are, for there are two of them?"
The Twins turned and looked. "One of them is Limber Legs hanging up by his toes to dry," cried Nancy. "Black Dinah starched him. And the other is the dress of the Crinoline Doll. Black Dinah starched it too. It got all flat when her mistress left her out in the rain."
"Isn't there going to be a revolution?" asked poor Mister Havalook, nervously. "The Tin Soldier said he was going to start one if he didn't get what he came for."
"Well, just now he's soaking in a bucket of water," said Nancy. "He complained of being too stiff in his joints and the Rag Doll said that soaking was good for it. So I dumped him in."
"Dear, dear! Then we are in for it," said poor Havalook, taking his spectacles out of his pocket and putting them on and then nervously taking them off again. "He will only get rusty and then he'll be madder than ever."
"We'll get him out right away and dry him off," said Nick. But just as he was making for the door, in marched the Crinoline Doll as mad as a hornet.
"Where's my dress?" she demanded. "I've been reading, 'The Three Musketeers' over and over, backwards and forwards, up and down, till I'm dizzy, waiting for my dress to dry. But when I went the last time it was gone off the line. Where is it? I can't go around this way with only a straight muslin slip that hasn't even a stitch of lace on it. Ugly thing!"
"Hoel Heel Heel!" went the Jack-in-the-Box suddenly, for the spring in his neck had slipped again and he was staring out of the window.
They all ran to see what he was laughing at, and there was the Rag Doll in a new crinoline skirt, walking off arm in arm with Limber Legs.
"Now there will be a revolution surely!" wailed poor Mister Havalook.

CLIPPING FROM THE PITTS-BURG SUN
"There have been some surprising developments in the Prescott pearl robbery. As was exclusively stated in the Sun, Police Commissioner Laidlaw had a very definite theory as to their disappearance. He put two of his best detectives quietly to work and they succeeded in tracking their man to his lodgings, which were at a rather obscure but very respectable hotel in the west end of the city. The man, however, who was staying there under the name of Downey, had become suspicious and had left this morning.
The detectives made a very thorough search of the premises and succeeded in unearthing a piece of evidence which practically convicts the man Downey and proves that the commissioner's theory is correct.
In some way a letter had fallen behind a bureau and lodged in a crack in the baseboard, where it was out of sight except to someone who was looking about the place most carefully.
The letter was addressed to Joseph Downey and it was signed 'Mabel.' The postmark showed it had been mailed at the main postoffice at 1 o'clock on last Tuesday, the 27th.
The letter follows:
"I can't understand why you have not been near me for three days. When you left me the other day after we had been reconnoitering about the steel mills, you said you would be back in the morning, and it's three days since I have seen you.
"I know you told me not to write you, but I have got to do so. I haven't a cent in the world, and I'm hungry—yes, hungry. Joe, I don't think I was ever hungry before in my life.
"I don't deserve this from you, you, Joe. You know I wasn't keen on returning from South America, where I could have married the old Don Sparta and in a few years become a rich widow, for the don is old and quite ill. You painted the picture so beautifully, however, that I decided to take your word for it. You told me how you got away, and were the only one left of the whole gang, consequently the jewels would belong to you if you could get them. You said you knew they were still in that room, for Zoe Ellington had them that night when everyone had to get out quickly.
You told me you would give me half of them if I returned with you and helped you to obtain them. You told me if I did not come with you, you would give me away to Don Sparta.
I was not to blame because you did not find them where you expected to. I don't believe I am to blame because you have gotten tired of me so soon. I have tried to be true to you, but now I will confess that one of the reasons I returned with you was that in some way I wanted to get back on the whole world for what it did to me when that boy fell in love with me. I wanted to make that woman who took it upon herself to rescue the boy, suffer. I thought perhaps if I could see him again, I could make him believe in me again.

CLOTURE FAILS TO HALT DEBATE ON WORLD COURT

from the tribunal at any time and the court statute may not be amended without American consent. "Advisory opinions of the court shall be rendered publicly after the interested states have had opportunity to be heard and the court shall not, without consent of this country render such opinions regarding any dispute in which the United States is involved.

An attached condition provides that unless the other signatory nations accept the American reservations, this country shall not sign the court protocol.

The two declarations of policy which received unanimous approval stipulate that:

The court may not consider disputes to which the United States is a party without agreement between the interested parties and that American adherence to the court is not to imply relinquishment of this country's traditional policies against entangling alliances and toward purely American questions.

PROPOSALS REJECTED

Two reservations offered by opponents of the court already have been rejected by the senate. One by Senator Reed, Missouri, would have the Monroe Doctrine declared as a principle of international law binding upon the court. It was defeated 82 to 6. While another by Senator Frazier went down without a roll call, it related to American withdrawal from the court.

Although debate on the issue has about died out Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana and Senator Shipstead took their views to the radio microphone Tuesday night for a final volley before the deciding vote is taken. Their argument was transmitted by telephone wire from station WCAP. Here to station WGN in Chicago where it was placed on the air. The Montana senator defended the court as a real step in the promotion of peace and Senator Shipstead attacked it as "an imperialistic dictatorship which seeks to extend autocracy over the world."

MARRIAGE OF ELDERLY BANKER CAUSES SUITS

New York—(AP)—Marriage of George Brinton Caldwell, 63-year-old banker and clubman, to Miss Marie Andrews, 35-year-old school teacher more than two years ago already has caused him two breach of promise suits. Fourteen months ago Zoe M. Evans, manufacturer, filed suit in Boston for $300,000 charging that Mr. Caldwell's marriage had violated his promise to marry her a few months before his engagement to Miss Andrews. This suit is yet to be tried.

Tuesday trial of a suit by Mrs. Clara Eola Shiras, divorced wife of Ralph D. Shiras of Kansas City, for $100,000 for alleged breach of promise began here.

Mrs. Shiras testified that Mr. Caldwell introduced himself on a train from Chicago to New York in 1923 and proposed that they get off the train at Cleveland to be married. She admitted that she told him then she was a widow and did not tell him until a week later she had divorced her husband. She refused to marry him then, she declared, but he promised to marry her in August.

Mr. Caldwell denies everything except the fact that he married Miss Andrews "the best looking, school teacher at Westbrook, Maine."

WOMAN WAITS IN VAIN FOR OFFICER OF LAW

Greenville, S. C.—(AP)—Mrs. Holland Pittman, whose husband and father-in-law have been condemned to death for the killing of a Constable J. Howard, is waiting in vain to be arrested. She told newspapermen Tuesday that she had killed the constable, but Sheriff Sam Willis has not seen fit to call on her, expressing belief her statement was without foundation.

She said Tuesday night that unless action was taken by the authorities within a day or two to investigate her story, she would seek an audience with Governor McLeod.

BOY, SAVED FROM CHAIR, GETS LIFE SENTENCE

Harrisburg, Pa.—(AP)—Saved from the electric chair, William C. Cavalier, 15, must spend his life in state prison for killing his grandmother for $50.

The execution had been set for next Tuesday. Tuesday the state head of pardons commuted the sentence.

The boy said he was happy his life had been spared, but added "I am afraid it was just done with the idea of having me declared insane and sending me to an insane asylum. As secured by the county prison warden that such was not the case, he said he was satisfied. During his trial in had joked about "the hot seat."

The boy's attorneys said at the pardon board hearing that he never had a chance since birth. They said he was not aware of the enormity of the act when he shot his 63-year-old grandmother for the purpose of robbery two years ago.

Petitions signed by several thousands in Pennsylvania and New York were presented by child welfare authorities.

BULGARIA WILL TAKE PART IN ARMS PARLEY

Geneva—(AP)—Bulgaria has notified the league of nations of its acceptance of the invitation to participate in the disarmament conference preliminary.

Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, will go to Paris Thursday to consult with Premier Briand and Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, regarding final arrangements for the first meeting of the disarmament commission.

DOLLY MADISON, WAS FLAPPER, LECTURER SAYS

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Dolly Madison, wife of the fourth president, has been thrust into the spotlight which lately has been playing on the life of George Washington.

Mrs. Madison, were she alive today, would be called a flapper, the Susan B. Anthony foundation was told Tuesday night by Mrs. Harry Atwell Coleman.

She was frivolous, used rouge, dipped snuff and played cards for high stakes," is Mrs. Coleman's description of her. She also credited the president's wife with having greatly influenced her husband in political matters.

WALES TUMBLES BUT IT'S MOUNT'S FAULT

London—(AP)—The Prince of Wales horse dropped dead under him Wednesday while the prince was hunting at Melton-Howbury with the Belvoir hounds. The prince was not injured. The prince had just cleared a fence and on landing his mount fell dead. The prince fell on his side and sustained a slight bruise but otherwise appeared to be unhurt. He mounted another horse and resumed the hunt. Later he and the Duke of York left for London.

COLONEL MITCHELL RESIGNS FROM ARMY

the war and navy departments and accusing his superiors of "almost treasonable" conduct of the aviation services.

A general court martial after weeks of testimony found him guilty of all of the charges of breach of discipline preferred against him and the sentence was approved by the war department board of review before it came before the president.

The resignation was announced Wednesday by Representative Frank R. Reid, of Illinois, chief defense counsel for Colonel Mitchell during his court martial trial. Neither he nor the colonel would comment on the action which had been momentarily expected since the president approved the court's sentence with modifications.

For the time being comment also was withheld both at the war department and the White House. It is expected however that a decision will be announced shortly.

Acceptance of the resignation by the president would automatically commute the sentence and give Colonel Mitchell full civilian rights.

In asking that his resignation be effective Feb. 1, Colonel Mitchell has left sufficient time for the president to receive advice from the war department.

RETIRING SCOUTMASTER HONORED AT BANQUET

Dr. W. S. Beard of New York city gave an address at the banquet for Troop No. 8 of Boy Scouts of the Congregational church at 6:30 Tuesday evening. The banquet was given as a farewell for C. Willard Cross, who recently resigned as scoutmaster of the troop and as a reception for the new scout master, Carl Engel.

Dr. Beard, who is a cousin of Dan Beard, national scoutmaster, told about the activities of scouts in New York and gave several interesting incidents of Dan Beard's work. A short talk was given by Dr. H. E. Peabody, pastor. The scouts presented Mr. Cross with a jack knife on which the scout motto was engraved, as a token of appreciation for the work he had done while scoutmaster. The key to the church was turned over to Carl Engel, who will preside at the meetings in the future.

DRUNK SENTENCED TO TEN DAYS IN JAIL

J. F. Martin, 48-year old Oshkosh cigar maker, outlived his welcome in Appleton and when he attempted to stretch the city's hospitality too far he was arrested Tuesday evening by Mechanic Albert Deltgen on the charge of drunkenness. Last Friday Martin sought lodging over night at the police station and he was allowed to remain in spite of a slight "liquor breath." He carried a bottle of denatured alcohol which was marked "Poison" in his belt.

Evidently Martin thought the local police were pretty nice to him so he remained in the city. Mechanic Deltgen arrested him while he was making a general nuisance of himself at the Northwestern depot. He was well "loaded." Martin was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail when he appeared before Judge Theodore Berg Wednesday morning in municipal court.

VINCENT GETS ANOTHER POSTPONEMENT OF TRIAL

J. Bernie Vincent, charged with embezzling $1,700 from the Midwest Commercial Accounting Co. of Milwaukee early in December had his trial postponed for the fourth time when he appeared in municipal court Wednesday morning. The trial was postponed until Wednesday morning, Feb. 10 to allow the attorneys to file briefs.

He was haled into court in December and his trial was adjourned until Dec. 17. At that time it was set for Jan. 15 and it was again postponed until Jan. 27. The fourth postponement took place Wednesday morning.

MILWAUKEE IS FLOODED WITH POISON LIQUOR

Milwaukee—(AP)—Poison liquor, which in the opinion of chemists who have examined it contains much wood alcohol, is being distributed in Milwaukee. Richard Schneider of the Industrial Chemical institute said "never in the history of prohibition have we found so many samples of whisky containing wood alcohol. We believe that it is dangerous for any one to drink any of the stuff being sold illegally. The situation is so alarming we believe the people should know it."

MOVES OFFICE

O. C. Smith of the O'Keefe and Orblison Engineering and Construction Co. moved his offices Wednesday from No. 6 and 7 in Odd Fellows bldg. to the two room suite formerly occupied by Attorney A. C. Bosser in the same building. Mr. Smith's new headquarters have more window space than the old, and thus afford better light for drafting.

Markets

WABASH FINDS HEAVY DEMAND

Closing of Stock Market Is Strong With Sales Approximating 1,400,000 Shares

New York—(AP)—Uneven price movements characterized the opening of Wednesday's stock market. United States steel common opened with a block of four thousand shares at the spread opening price of 1.32 1/2 @, as against Tuesday's close of 1.33 1/2, in reflection of speculative disappointment over the failure of the directors to declare a special dividend distribution. Initial losses of a point or so in Baldwin, and Stewart Warner were counteracted by similar gains in Ludlum Steel, Dupont, Fleischmann and California Packing.

Heavy buying of Wabash which went up 2 1/2 to 50 1/2 on a revival of recent rumors that the road would be linked up in a merger with an east-end trunk line system caused the market to rally after prices had dipped in sympathy with a renewed decline in United States Steel to 1.32 1/2. Atlantic Coast Line fell 5 1/2, Sear Roebuck and Public Service of New Jersey 2 1/2. On the rebound various specialties were buoyant. United Fruit rising 5, Case Threshing Machine 4 1/2 and Woolworth and Union Bag and Paper 3 1/2 each. Local traction, chemicals, American Can and Postum Cereal were also in demand. Call loans were unchanged at 4 per cent.

The first batch of selling orders was quickly absorbed and the market turned upward before the end of the first half hour, under the leadership of the motor, Hudson, Jordan and General Motors moving up one to two points. Continuance of easy money rates another sharp drop in crude oil production last week and an increase in car loadings in the second full week of January over the corresponding period last year had a bullish effect on sentiment. On the first outbreak of selling, United States Cast Iron Pipe was carried down three points and American Can, Baldwin, Tobacco Products and a few others a point or so. Dupont extended its early gains to two points and Marine preferred, Corro De Paz copper, Texas Gulf Sulphur, and Postum held a point or more above Tuesday's final quotations. Foreign exchanges opened steady, demand sterling ruling around $4.86 and French francs advancing slightly to $27.35 cents.

The closing was strong. Total sales approximated 1,400,000 shares.
